Environment

This is the most magnificent home we've ever seen.

Mother Nature has children, yet it is our responsibility to protect them. They have voices, yet we must speak for them. They have rights, yet we must fight for them. And they have a home, yet it is we who must shelter them. James V. Zizzi takes a very firm yet simple stand on environmental issues as they affect the building industry on Long Island. "If you don't like an environmental law, work to have it changed. Until then I follow it to the letter."

Some builders bend the environmental rules on behalf of their clients, especially if no one's looking. James V. Zizzi chooses to never look the other way, on behalf of us all.

The Down Factory Store

www.downfactorystore.com

Summer Extravaganza

Guaranteed LOWEST Down Prices in THE COUNTRY

(CATALOGS, CHAINS, DISCOUNTERS
WE BEAT THEM ALL)
PHONE ORDER DEPARTMENT
1(888) 414 - DOWN

Thanks to our retail and "online" customers we are one of the largest resources for goose down comforters, pillows and featherbeds. Consumers that compare our quality and prices to those of department stores, discounters, catalogs and other web sites find that we are indeed unbeatable - and we guarantee that! Know the facts of down before you buy.

FACT: Down comes from the chest of the bird to keep it insulated from the weather. Feathers (those things with quills) come from the back of the bird to keep it dry. Down can cost as much as $10.00 an ounce, feathers 10¢ an ounce. Over 90% of down manufacturers find it to their advantage to add over 30% feathers to their down. It's like buying three pounds of ground sirloin and getting two pounds of meat and one pound of fat. You have paid for meat and got fat, it's the same with their down, they both do it because it's legal. We do not contaminate our down by adding feathers to it.

KNOW THE FACTS BEFORE YOU BUY IT

FACT: Fill power, this is the amount the cubic inches filled by one ounce of down. Higher fill power means a higher quality down. You will find that as the quality of the down increases, so does the comfort & life of the item.

FACT: We use only high thread count, baffle box construction, 100% cotton covers on our down comforters & pillows. Down insulates by trapping air and holding in your body temperature, keeping you comfortable through the night. Low quality comforters are usually heavier because it takes more of an inferior down to fill a comforter. Inferior down becomes clumpy and it can't breath, resulting in your becoming over heated and uncomfortable. Our high quality down gives you the warmth and comfort without the weight.

FACT: In all likelihood you will have your comforter longer than the car you are now driving.

"We go the distance for you."

FUTURE HISTORIC LANDMARKS OF THE HAMPTONS

First To Second

Southampton And Sag Harbor Have Been Second All Along

By Dan Rattiner

The Hamptons got dealt another history setback last week. The Halsey House, in Southampton, has been found to NOT be the oldest standing building in the State of New York. That honor now falls to the Old House in Cutchogue, on the North Fork, which, until now, was thought to be the SECOND oldest house in the State of New York.

The change in rankings has come about due to renovations going on at the Halsey House. Here on South Main Street, restorers took apart a side wall to discover evidence that there was framing built to accommodate a side porch. Mr. Halsey, one of the founders of Southampton and one of the first English settlers, built two houses. The first one, built in 1647, for himself and his wife didn't have a side porch. The second one, which he built for one of his sons in 1666, HAD a side porch, which is mentioned in the senior Halsey's will, available for viewing at the Southampton Museum. This Halsey House is the second one, not the first. The first is long gone. So this is the one that was built to act gracious about their sudden elevation to Number One. But when they talk a certain smugness sneaks in. The North Fork has a long rivalry with the South Fork and in most things finishes second. This was totally unexpected.

This is the second setback in the history department of the Hamptons in just two months. Back in May, it was revealed that the Sag Harbor Volunteer Fire Department is not the oldest in New York State. It too is the second oldest.

This discovery came about because the Sag Harbor Fire Department sent out some official correspondence to various fire departments in upstate New York inviting them to send equipment to display at the Sag Harbor Parade, and on their stationery, as it has always been on their stationery, is the slogan, "Oldest Volunteer Fire Department in the State of New York."

South O' the Highway (and the North too)

Interior Designer Mark Epstein of New York, the Hamptons and Palm Beach hosted Presidential candidate Governor Howard Dean, MD of Vermont at a reception last Saturday at his Water Mill home, featured in a recent issue of Hampton Style. Co-Hosting the event with Mr. Epstein were Mitchell Gold, David Bohnett and Tom Gregory, Marisa Cardinale, Dick Dadey and Lief Meneke, Rachel Lavine and Roberta Kaplan, Lou Martarano, Charles Nolan, Ed Parran and Jim Guideria, Kevin Roon and Simon Yates.

Another Presidential contender, Senator Joseph Lieberman, is to be a guest at the Hampton Synagogue in Westhampton Beach on July 26. The Synagogue hosted Tovah Feldshuh last Saturday. Her Broadway show opens October 3 at The Helen Hayes Theatre. Last Monday Dr. Ruth Westheimer joined Rabbi Marc Schneier in a discussion reviewing the film, Purity, at the Synagogue's Jewish Film Festival.

John Catsimatides has received a great deal of support to run for Mayor of New York City, not just among Gristedes and Red Apple aficionados, but from NY Sen. Hillary Clinton and former President Bill Clinton, although Mr. Clinton may be considering a run as well, keeping New York in the family.

East Hampton's Sean Combs was the producer of the Bad Boys II soundtrack. The movie took first place last weekend, earning $46.7 million, kicking Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl out of the top spot. Mr. Combs hosted his own New York premiere with Jay-Z, Busta Rhymes and Macy Gray in attendance.

Russell Simmons, Joseph "Rev. Run" Simmons of Run DMC, and visual artist Danny Simmons, founders of Rush Philanthropic Arts Foundation host the fourth annual benefit, Art for Life, on July 26 in East Hampton to support arts and educational programs for thousands of New York area urban youth, many of whom will have the opportunity to perform and showcase their artwork at the event. The Gala will honor Ben Cohen Co-Founder of Ben & Jerry's Ice Cream; Linda Johnson Rice, President & CEO, Johnson Publishing; and Michael Lee-Chin, Chairman & CEO, AIC for their contributions to arts and education initiatives. This year's benefit Co-Chairs are L. Marilyn Crawford, Andre Harrell, Brett Ratner, and Phyllis Hollis. Expected to attend are Kristin Davis, Kim Cattrall, Angela Bassett, Christie Brinkley, Star Jones, Holly Robinson Peete, Betsey Johnson, Tommy Hilfiger, Quincy Jones, Brett Ratner, and Carmen Kass.

Nope.

A letter came back from the Hudson (NY) Fire Department upon which was the slogan, "Oldest Fire Department in the State of New York," suggesting they swap information. More letters went back and forth. Now Sag Harbor has printed a new batch of stationery, with the claim of oldest removed. And in the original firehouse in Sag Harbor, which was built in 1803 and is now a museum on the corner of Sage and Church Streets, all references to the old claim are being rescinded.

The Hamptons still lay claim to being the arrival point for the first English settler in the State of New York. And that remains unchallenged. In 1639, just 19 years after the English landed in Massachusetts at Plymouth Rock, an English engineer, a builder of forts and adventurer named Lion Gardiner gathered up his wife, child and servants and came by boat down from Old Saybrook, Connecticut — he had built the fort there to protect the settlers from the Pequot Indians — sailed across Long Island Sound, and landed at an uninhabited 3,020-acre island off Amagansett. The island reminded him of England's Isle of Wight, and so Gardiner established an estate for himself there. The island henceforth became known as Gardiner's Island, which is what it is today. And 1639 marks the founding of the first English colony in the State.

One year later, two more groups of settlers came, one establishing a settlement in what is now Southampton, and the other establishing a settlement on the North Fork in what is now

Southold. Both towns call themselves "the First English Settlement in the State of New York," marking the date as 1640. And there has been no end to discussion about whether the establishment of one of the settlements came early in that year with the building of a schoolhouse in Southampton or later in that year with the building of a meeting house in Southold, or whether a man, sitting on a stump in Southold PLANNING the schoolhouse during the very first month of that year ought to count and therefore give the honor to Southold and not to Southampton. This debate and this mix-up do not speak well for either settlement if you ask me.

There has been another setback for the Hamptons in recent times, if you consider about 1975 to be recent times. I suppose historically speaking, it is.

Prior to that time, the Montauk Lighthouse was considered "the First Lighthouse Ordered Built in the United States of America." (Note: The North Fork HAS NO LIGHTHOUSE at its tip at Orient.)

The claim of "First Lighthouse" seemed pretty unassailable until 1975. Though there had been lighthouses built along the East Coast of America prior to the time the Montauk Lighthouse was built in 1796, they had all been built when this place was still a colony of England. The Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776, war broke out, and the official formation of the country, with a Congress and George Washington as its first President, was not to take place until 1792. During the second session of Congress, records show that George Washington ordered a lighthouse built at Montauk. The very first one in the new country. Construction got underway. Stone was brought down from Maine. A French engineer named L'Hommedieu, familiar with the building of lighthouses was brought in, and the building was officially opened in 1796. It seemed very fair to say this was "The First Lighthouse Ordered Built in the United States of America."

Shinnecocks Need Help And Everyone Is Missing The Point

By Dan Rattiner

The Shinnecock Indian Nation cleared about twelve acres of land in Hampton Bays last week in preparation for future construction of their gambling casino. If they are successful in completing this project, they will have built the first such facility on eastern Long Island.

At the present time, just about all public officials in the United States of America have opposed what the Shinnecock Nation is doing. These public officials include those from Southampton Town, Suffolk County, the State of New York and the federal government. Two weeks ago, when the Shinnecocks announced that construction could begin immediately, State officials got a temporary court injunction to prevent them from breaking ground. The Shinnecocks, in spite of the fact that they have said this is their land and they can do what they want, respected the injunction, which was good for twelve days. They also filed papers to get the matter into federal court, where it was expected there would be a second injunction. There was, however, a window of opportunity between the injunctions, if you read them literally. The Shinnecocks said the State injunction expired Sunday morning, and the new one, which they expected, would go into effect Tuesday. And so bulldozers were moved in and about twelve acres of wooded land, some of it with trees fifty-feet-tall, were cleared.

On the other hand, our State representative, Fred Thiele, said the state injunction was in place for twelve WORKING days. Which would mean that it would continue seamlessly into the federal injunction.

The details of all this are important because of several things. First, it indicates a willingness on the part of the Shinnecocks to obey injunctions in spite of their claim to full Shinnecock Nation sovereignty. It also indicates an intelligent strategy and use of the law in getting what they want. Not complying with a clearly written injunction can bring jail time and fines upward of $10 million dollars and it is the United States that has the guns if it should come down to that. On the other hand, it is clear that the Shinnecocks are receiving very effective legal advice on how to proceed to get what they want. And indeed, they have signed on with rich and powerful financial forces, led by Oklahoma casino developer Ivy Ong, who has been down this road many times before in getting gambling casinos in place in California and other southwestern states. The injunction, his lawyers said, was NOT clear.

And so it appears that whatever anybody thinks about this project, whether there is a casino in Hampton Bays owned by the Shinnecocks or not will be decided in an American courtroom. All things relating to American Indian tribes are decided in a courtroom. And so it makes no sense for people to be arguing about how they "feel" about an Indian casino in these parts, and for Shinnecocks to be shunned by American officials when they want to sit down and talk about the future. This is a mistake. There will be, clearly, either one gambling casino north of Flanders Road on property beachfront on Peconic Bay or there will not be a gambling casino north of Flanders Road on property beachfront on Peconic Bay. Both these possibilities need to be planned for. It is irresponsible of the Town, County and State not to do so. Yet that is their position.

The shame of it is that taking this position leaves something unspoken, and that is that we believe the Shinnecocks will lose — surely a possibility — and if they lose, this problem will just go away. Things will remain status quo.

The status quo would be that the Shinnecocks live in poverty on their 800-acre reservation in Southampton, ten miles from the Hampton Bays site. They've always lived there in poverty. And I suppose it is fair to say that two hundred and fifty years ago, when the Indian tribes were defeated and sent off to reservations, that was at least partly all right with them. They had fought for their way of life. They had lost. A half a loaf was better, I should say a one-hundredth of a loaf was better, than none. They could continue their tribal ways on their reservations.

Until a hundred years ago, I think it is fair to say, the tribe was not much poorer than other "Americans." A few people in America were wealthy. But the vast majority lived without the finer things in life than were to be had on the reservation. Nobody had health care, child care, cars, TVs, airplane travel or the rest of it.

The world has taken some turns since then, however, and today Americans have all of the above and are prospering. Then there is this huge gap down to the primitive ways of the Native Americans.

You can clearly see the disparity if you go to the Shinnecock Reservation, particularly when it is open to the public during the annual Indian Pow Wow on Labor Day weekend, which by the way has been one of the few sources of income for the Shinnecock Nation until now. The street pavement is not being maintained. At night, there are hardly any street lights. Houses, built without building codes or zoning restrictions, tend to be tumbledown. There is limited access, if any at all, to children's health care on the reservation, to child care, to modern medical care, to health insurance, even to bank financing. There is no income tax, but there is also no welfare, no unemployment insurance, no disability, no government aid for college bound students. Look at the telephone poles that go through the reservation. There is one, maybe two strands of wire. Call the police? There is no Shinnecock Police. The State Police comes.

It is fruitless to argue that this is the way that the Shinnecocks and other Indian Nations wanted things. The truth is it was decided in Washington how things would be two hundred and fifty years ago. The Shinnecocks had no choice in the matter. That they were secretive and reclusive about "their ways" up until as recently as ten years ago is true. No more. Now, like many people, while wishing to continue to celebrate their heritage, they want to share the American experience. And all they can do is make their case to the American court system.

Well, twenty-five years ago, the American Court system ruled that if America was going to consider the Native Americans another country, then the Native Americans had the right to build gambling casinos in that country. You couldn't have it both ways.

This was a cumbersome, halfway decision. Congress, through the Bureau of Indian Affairs, might have proposed new laws and gone further with it. But they didn't. And that is where the matter stands today. The gambling casino system does work. And so there you are. And since that is all that was presented to them, that is all they have to take.

(In some ways, the awakening of the American Indians has paralleled the awakening of all those behind the Iron Curtain during the era of the Soviet Union. From 1917 to about 1965, things worked pretty well behind the Iron

Flags Flying, Headband In Place, We Drive Onto The Beach

By Dan Rattiner

If you have a four wheel drive vehicle in Southampton, you should know that there is a beach in town where you can legally drive out onto the sand, park, fish, grill and picnic. To use it, you have to be a resident of Southampton Town, which includes not only the Village of Southampton, but Bridgehampton, Water Mill, Sagaponack, Hampton Bays and Westhampton, swear that you have all the proper beach buggy things for your vehicle — shovel and rope, flashlight and flare — and with that they will give you a big square blue sticker that you paste on the front bumper of your car.

Up until this year, the stickers cost $10 if you get them from the Southampton Trustees. The stickers cost $85 if you get them from Southampton Village. Or $45 if you prove you are a resident of Southampton Village. Personally, I prefer the Trustee stickers. I've been getting them from the Trustees for years. Also, I am not a resident of the Village, which encompasses just downtown, the estate section, and the oceanfront.

This past Monday, however, I was off to make myself a test case. Things had gone terribly, terribly wrong with this situation. The Village of Southampton wanted to charge $345 for a this beach for the American public. Perhaps they would let the air out of my tires. Perhaps I would get towed away. If necessary I would go down fighting. On my way to Southampton, I listened to the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

First stop was the office of the Southampton Trustees located in Town Hall where, for ten dollars, I bought my annual square blue sticker for the front of the car.

"You know the Village may not honor this," the clerk said to me as she wrote the license number of my car in the proper place.

"I understand that," I said.

Here is, as best that I can explain it, how the Village and the Trustees have come to loggerheads about this situation. I am, as you will soon see, in favor of the legal position of the Trustees. Besides which, their sticker is cheaper.

The Southampton Trustees are an ancient organization, originally established in 1686 by the sticker. The Trustees who own the rights to the beach objected. I decided it was time to protest. I put two American flags on the rear side windows of my SUV, put a rolled up American flag bandana around my forehead, some patriotic American music in my CD player, and backed out the driveway of my home to try to take back

Protest (continued from previous page)

Dongan Patent, a document created at the request of King James II. From that day to this, the Trustees have discharged their duties, given to them by the King, to protect the "freeholders" of the town (citizens of the town) and their inalienable rights to walk on the beaches, take wagons on the beaches, clam and fish from the beaches, take SUVs on the beaches, and to enjoy the beaches in any shape, manner, or form, including surfing, boating, sunbathing, picnicking, building bonfires, playing radios, telling stories or whatever else they want to do unhindered by any outsiders so long as they don't take all their clothes off. There are dirt tracts and dirt roads that go out to the beaches and these are protected. They have come to be known as Trustee Roads.

Around thirty years ago, the Village of Southampton, which owns the beach (the Trustees' authority is an easement and rights to the beach), suggested that they, the Village, take care of the Trustee roads and keep them in good order. The Trustees said fine, so long as they don't charge the local people more than just a few dollars to use them.

For the last thirty years, this few dollars has grown to a still understandable $85 for Southampton Town residents, and $45 for Southampton Village residents. Meanwhile, the Village continued to honor the cheap Trustee permits. This past winter, the Village announced that the cost of the sticker for Town residents to use the Trustee Roads there in the Incorporated Village would be $345. The Trustees hit the roof. Bring it back to $85 or we will take back the rights to our access roads, they said. The Village wouldn't. And furthermore they wouldn't honor the $10 Trustee stickers. And that's where the matter stood last Monday when I got my sticker.

"The Trustees will reimburse you for any fines the Village charges you," the clerk said. "The Trustees have the access roads back now."

"I dare them to give me a ticket," I said.

The clerk looked at my headband. "On the other hand, they might lock you up," she said.

"Let them just try," I said.

I went out to my SUV and pasted the Trustee sticker on my front bumper. Then I got in the car and, flags flying, drove down to the beach. I went out a Trustee Road and parked facing the Atlantic Ocean. I sat there.

After awhile, a Village police officer walked over. He went around to the front of the SUV and looked at my blue sticker.

"You have to have a Village sticker," he said. "This is a Trustee sticker."

"The Trustees were given the authority to regulate the beaches and access roads to them on behalf of the Freeholders of the Town by King James II in 1686 by the proclamation of the Dongan Patent," I said.

The officer paid no attention to me. Instead, he took out his pad and pencil and proceeded to write something up to give to me. He asked to see my driver's license and registration. He looked at my license plate number and copied it down. Then he handed it to me.

"What's with the flags and the bandana?" he asked.

"The Village of Southampton has no right to ignore the Trustees," I said. "The Trustees have been challenged in court many times. They have always won."

The policeman wanted to say something, but I was in no mood to listen. Instead, I put my SUV in reverse, did a K turn and drove back out to the road, then to Town Hall and the office of the Trustees. I handed the woman there the ticket.

"This is not a ticket," she said. "It's a warning."

"Let me see that," I said. She handed it to me and I turned it over and over and over. It was a warning all right. "You mean I went all the way out there and back and they didn't even give me a ticket?"

"Nope," she said. "Sorry."

I left the Trustees office and drove home. On the way I listened to "America the Beautiful" and the "Stars and Stripes Forever." I would come back another day.

Well, what happened, I am told, is that the Village and the Trustees have come to some kind of temporary terms, for the summer anyway, with plans to figure out something reasonable for both sides this coming fall.

This sure took the wind out of my sails. Frankly, I had hoped to report to you, dear reader, that I had defended the people's rights to go to the beach, been punished, been vindicated and had emerged triumphant. I took off the bandana but I kept the flags in the windows overnight. That would show them.

Sometimes, these things just don't work out as you hoped, I guess.

No matter what the circumstance.

Ranch In Trouble

Volunteer In The Effort To Save Montauk's Wagon Trail Ride

By Dan Rattiner

One of the great things to do in Montauk is go on the ranch trail ride through Deep Hollow Ranch. The wagons leave about five in the afternoon every day, and for the next three hours, attended by a guide on horseback, make their way up and down the trails on the 1,200-acre ranch, enjoying the sights. Under the tutelage of Rusty and Diane Leaver, fourth generation cowboys at the old ranch, the tour now includes encounters with costumed figures from the history of Montauk. Performers dressed as Captain Kidd, Princess Quashawam, Steven Talkhouse and Teddy Roosevelt step out from behind the trees, talk about their connections to our village and answer questions from those on the wagons. The whole thing ends in a barbecue out in a pasture about a half mile from the 300 year old ranch house. Or at least it used to end with a barbecue in a pasture not far from the ranch house. Quite an evening for about $40 per adult. There is nothing else like it in Montauk, or anywhere else in the New York Metropolitan area, I'd say.

This year, however, a most unlikely source — the Suffolk County Parks Department — is causing trouble about the wagon ride. In 1975, the County bought the Deep Hollow Leavers had become, officially, vendors on the property. The Leavers agreed to pay $30,000 a year in rent, and a percentage of the gross that would bring in approximately another $30,000. The Parks Department also made a commitment, not to the Leavers but to the community in general, to keep the ranch house itself in repair. The ranch house is a treasure for this community and arguably a treasure for the nation. Built in 1741, and rebuilt in the early 1800s, it is the ranch house to the first cattle ranch in the United States. And in 1898 it was the headquarters for Teddy Roosevelt and his Roughriders, who had returned along with the entire American army from the Spanish American War to an encampment here.

Over the past ten years, the Parks Department has had six commissioners, a fact that would not matter, except that each incoming commissioner made it his business to review the vendor's licence held by the Leavers. No problem was ever found until last

Ranch, a private enterprise at that time, in order to save it for future generations. They also expressed enthusiasm for the wagon ride experience, and eagerly signed an agreement with the Leavers so that the ride through the ranch grounds could continue on for the next twenty years. The County also benefitted from the ride directly now, because the year. At that point, with a new commissioner on board, little nitpicking requests were brought to the Leavers' attention. These few requests have increased to a flood in the past six months, some of them so outrageous as to endangering the wagon ride itself. Considering that a budget crunch has made the Parks Department hard up for money, and considering that the ride brings in about $60,000 for them at no effort to them other than to collect it, the whole thing seems very strange. It is also a fact that, in spite of a State grant to restore the ranch house five years ago, the Parks Department has allowed it to fall into serious disrepair. The roof leaks, the paint is peeling and a few months ago the ceiling collapsed in the kitchen.

If you think I am exaggerating this situation, consider these demands that the Parks Department has issued to the Leavers in the last eighteen months.

The portable toilets in the pasture would have to be upgraded. Cooking food in the pasture would henceforth be forbidden. Busses bringing the elderly and the disabled would no longer be welcome to stop and drop off passengers. A fresh water spigot for drinking water, attached to a well dug by the County in 1998 in the pasture would no longer be allowed to be used for the wagon ride people. Catering would be allowed so that wagon ride goers could enjoy dinner on the trail, but prospective caterers would have to contact the Parks Department directly for permission, and only approved caterers would be permitted. (They enclosed a list. The nearest approved caterer is 60 miles away.) A few horses would be permitted on the property, but cattle and other farm animals would be banned (this is the oldest cattle ranch in the United States!) because there is a regulation that says all animals in the state park have to be leashed. Along those same lines, the sixty by one hundred foot petting zoo of ewes, rabbits, goats, kids, lambs, a donkey and chickens near the entrance to the trail ride would have to be dismantled. The advertising inviting people to the ride, consisting of big signs on horse drawn wagons at the ranch site, and also big signs on wagons going up and down the public streets of Montauk, would be disallowed. (These wagons and signs have been a tradition in the town for the past seven years.) The reason the Parks Department could disallow signage not on their property was because the Leavers had agreed to have the wording of any sign approved and Parks was not approving any wording.)

When you talk to the parks department they do not give any good reasons to suddenly put these draconian restrictions on the Leavers. They say they like the wagon ride. They agree the Leavers have a lease. One can only think there must be another agenda going on here. Either 1. The Parks Department wants to run the wagon ride itself or 2. the Parks Department doesn't like the Leavers and wants to get them to break the lease, or 2a. the Parks Department wants NO wagon ride through the park or 2b. they want a BIGGER wagon ride through the park, 3. the Parks Department has gone berserk or 4. the Parks Department has somebody else in mind they want for the vendor's licence. (Perhaps a relative of a higher-up? Nah. Couldn't happen.)

The Leavers won't go easily. They created the wagon ride, their parents and grandpar-

Owner Of Boys And Girls Harbor In East Hampton Talks Ecology

By Anthony Drexel Duke

(Mr. Duke has announced a donation of one of the largest parcels of open land in the Hamptons for preservation.)

Do I know something you don't? I am so afraid you may think so. It's doubtful. A sport friend asked me, "What do you know that we don't? It better be good, Duke!"

I said to him in self-defense — and to obscure my ignorance — "Damn it, I'm not going to tell you!" He looked puzzled. He is currently avoiding me.

The subject of the environment — both human and natural — is far too vast for a layman like me to try to cover in a brief talk, such as mine this evening. But I'll try to touch on a few dilemmas that threaten our world today. The human environment and natural environment criss-cross. Hard for me to speak of one without talking about the other.

There are few good and bad things I will undoubtedly say tonight: Please bear with me.

As everyone here surely knows, scientists and climatologists using all available information and research, and modern computer technology, are now stating in no uncertain terms that ecological catastrophe lies down the road in a matter of decades unless people who make up the human environment act to preserve nature on the grounds of self-preservation, act to stop ozone depletion and the greenhouse effect, act to curtail the population explosion.

Ecological catastrophe lies down the road in a matter of decades unless people who make up the human environment act to preserve nature...

The fact of the matter is that nature's course was running OK until man screwed it up.

Earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, cyclones, typhoons, hurricanes and other so called "Acts of God" — as devastating to humanity as they are — have been "absorbed" throughout history of the planet.

Now, increasingly so since the time of the Industrial Revolution, man-made poisons and wastes in the earth, the water, and the atmosphere, are tipping the balance and with increasing speed. Mankind did not originally, but does now, dominate the planet. "We" have gained the ability to create a myriad of wonders. To wit: art, music, philosophy, medicine, horticulture and the technologies of aviation and computer science and so on, but also the ability to destroy entire ecosystems almost overnight, with dams, bombs, fires, forest decimation, agricultural and urban projects, over-population, mining and so on.

By our actions, we are saying that we know how to manage the environment, that nature is sufficiently vast and self-renewing as to be able to absorb all the shocks we subject it to, and also that we have a fundamental entitlement to nature's bounty.

These days, however, we are learning the hard way that reality is totally different. I won't go into excessive detail, but you and I know that we have global warming from the Greenhouse Effect, holes in the thinning ozone layer, acid rain polluting and killing land, forests and lakes, elimination of the carbon dioxide filtering process through the destruction of 1000's of acres of rain forest every minute, an annual loss of billions of tons of agricultural topsoil, with consequent decline in food production, and an explosive increase in human population that is adding a quarter of a million people daily. The litany of environmental disaster goes on and on.

Slowly, but surely, the world is getting wise to the fact that the global environment is under assault. Worldwide action is now confronting the urgent challenges to mankind. Local, state, national, international and private agencies are acting to reverse the cycle of disaster. Private industry is working on new energy sources, and ways to cut or eliminate toxic wastes. Most important of all, a new generation of youth is emerging with an educated view towards the local and world environment.

There will be plenty of conflicts along the way toward the ultimate solution between opposite interest groups.

Examples: Some politicians and economists line up against scientists. The former hope against hope for indications of proof that scientists are wrong, that earth can still combat the onslaught by man's resourcefulness. The head of University of California's Environmental Studies calls this the "Magic Thermostat Syndrome."

We still have International Wars with their consequent caring of nature (look at Iraq and Kuwait). On that subject, H.G. Wells wrote, "Unless the incidence of wars can be averted, unless common control can be imposed on the waste of man's finite inheritance of natural resources, the history of humanity must culminate in some sort of disaster." 1907!

We're listening to about half of that now at any rate. The human environment gets turned upside-down by war. There are five million refugees currently in the Middle East and millions more in Africa.

My childhood "friend" Charles Lindbergh wrote, "The human future depends on our ability to combine the knowledge of science with the wisdom of the wilderness." He later campaigned to protect whales and opposed development of supersonic transport planes, fearing the effect on earth's atmosphere.

I say "friend," referring to Lindbergh, because of a personal experience of mine at nine years of age in May 1927, watching him take off from Roosevelt Field in Mineola. He was my first real hero. My fourth grade teacher at Green Vale School on Long Island, Miss Rice, took me and three other curious classmates at 5:30 a.m., to Roosevelt Field to watch him take off on his little monoplane, the Spirit of St. Louis. She encouraged us to crawl through the crowd near the hangar where his plane was parked, to get close to "Lindy," as the public knew him. He actually glimpsed us, smiled and gave us the "thumbs up" signal. I'll never forget that.

Maybe we're listening to Lindbergh these days too. With our new laws regulating air and water, and effusion of carbon dioxide. And the search for alternative power and fuel sources. And legislation to reduce CFC'S (Chlorofluorocarbons).

And the work of Planned Parenthood and Population Crisis to control the population explosion.

Here I can't help thinking of a conversation between my grandparents when I was ten. My grandfather was trying to explain the Malthusian Theory of Geometric Progression to Granny. They'd both had a few cocktails. He went on and on and got frustrated when granny couldn't understand it. Finally, granny told him to be quiet, and not speak of such matters in the presence of children. A British economist, Robert Malthus, expounded the Malthusian Theory in 1798. It advanced the theory that population would ultimately out-run food production.

Over the years, I've involved myself with the human environment in the inner cities. Overall, it's quite a mess. Crack and such poisons are to a human what carbon dioxide is to the ozone layer. At The Harbor we work with groups of young inner-city individuals by helping to educate them to be self-sufficient. That's a contribution to the human environment which started with a simple camp in 1937 on Jessup's Neck in Noyac — it's now the Morton Wildlife Preserve. War years shut the Camp, which started again in 1946. We moved said Camp after World War II to Three Mile Harbor in East Hampton about fifty-four years ago.

In general in America, I regularly see wonderful young people on their way upward. And, in visiting schools and colleges, I can see a fu-

Mel Brooks And Anne Bancroft Play The Southampton Writer's Conference

By David Lion Rattiner

Last Saturday night, I walked in to the Avram Theater at the Southampton College to see Mel Brooks and his wife, Anne Bancroft, residents of Water Mill, speak at The Southampton College Writer's Conference. The audience, as you might imagine, was all snug in their seats, the theater completely packed, sold out.

On stage were Mel Brooks, his wife Anne Bancroft, and writer-in-residence Roger Rosenblatt.

Now I know that Mel Brooks and Anne Bancroft do not need any sort of introduction, but I will remind you all who they are anyway. Mel Brooks is the guy who wrote the movie Spaceballs. In my opinion, this movie is possibly the funniest movie ever made. It is either that or Ghostbusters. I have an ongoing debate with myself as to which one is the better comedy. He was also the guy that wrote Robin Hood: Men in Tights, Young Frankenstein, The Producers, Blazing Saddles, and many others. He is a director, actor, writer, and producer. Possibly one of the funniest men in the world.

Anne Bancroft is Mel's wife, and you can really see their love and chemistry when they are together. It is such a nice thing to see. Anne is also a star in her own right, having acted in television, theatre and the films Home For the Holidays, Great Expectations, Keeping the Faith, GI Jane, The Turning Point, and countless others. Roger Rosenblatt writes for Time magazine, books and plays. His most recent novel is entitled Rules for Aging. His best work is arguably Children of War.

The great thing about the entire show was how personal Mel Brooks got with the audience. He is just so dang funny it drove me crazy with laughter. He would talk about how he has done most of his writing on a yellow legal pad with a pen. He was telling story after story of things that happened during some of the filming of his movies.

One in particular was when he was the director of the movie The Producers. During the filming of the movie, Mel decided that he would go out and get some Chock Full o' Nuts coffee and sandwiches for the crew. When he came back, to the door of the studio, the security at the set would not allow him back in. "But I'm the director of this movie!" he told the female security guard. "Yeah sure you are buddy, just have a seat over there." He went to sit down while holding what he said was a thousand sandwiches and cups of coffee. Finally, he banged on the door again. This time the first assistant director opened it and cried out, "Where are the sandwiches already?" After a little bit of explaining, the se-

Everyone in the audience was raising their hands to ask him and Anne a question. I was raising my hand too but did not get picked. I wanted to ask him why they never made a "Spaceballs 2."

One of the questions that I found the most interesting was a question directed towards Mr. Brooks about success. The person wanted to know whether or not success made Mel Brooks less daring with his writing. Mel responded, "The absolute worst thing that any artist can do is to start doing things because they think that they have more of a commercial value." He said, "In a way, success can be depressing because it means that the challenge is over, the journey is over."

When asked what he was currently working on right now, Mel Brooks responded with this, "To keep on living. I wake up in the morning, have half a bran muffin, half decaf half regular. I'm watching everything."

What Mel Brooks and Anne Bancroft have curity guard was finally convinced that Mel was in fact the director. When Mel asked her why she thought that he could not be the director, she said to him, "You are too short to be a director."

Everything that comes out of this man's mouth is funny. "I have been married to my wife for thirty-five years," he said. Everyone clapped. "Why does everyone always clap when

Plane Down

Late Sunday, July 20, a single-engine plane carrying five people was forced to make an emergency landing in Great Peconic Bay near Hamptons Bays. Aboard the Air Hamptons Cessna 210 were Charlie Parker and his wife Emily Youssouf, both of Bridgehampton, pilot Matthew Grimaldi, and two guests headed for La Guardia airport. All five survived; the family dog, also on board, drowned.

The plane left East Hampton Airport and was heading to a 10 p.m. dinner party. But just before 9 p.m. the aircraft developed engine trouble and was diverted to Gabreski Airport. Shortly thereafter, the plane was forced to land in water north of Shinnecock Inlet in Hampton Bays, about 200 yards from the shore. The water was about six feet deep.

A local resident reportedly swam out to aircraft on a surfboard and helped everyone to shore. Police are currently investigating the cause of the cause of the crash.

By Dan Rattiner

Howard Dean, who is running for President, is a native son of East Hampton.

"My parents and grandparents were Hunttings from East Hampton and Fahys from Sag Harbor," he told me. "My grandma had a big house in Sag Harbor. My grandfather on the other side had a big house in North Haven. The houses were always busy with people, relatives, cousins. On one side there were six uncles and aunts."

If Howard Dean is a native son of this place, he comes from a family that was very successful in this community. The Fahys owned the big watch factory in Sag Harbor. The Hunttings made their money in whaling.

Howard's father, Stanley Dean, maintained his family ties in the Hamptons, but moved his immediate family to Manhattan — there were three boys — and that is where Howard was born. Stanley was a Wall Street man, and to raise his three boys he and his wife lived on Park Avenue and built a house on Hook Pond Lane in East Hampton not far from the beach. Howard was born in Manhattan, but it was the Hook Pond Lane home he remembers well.

"The only place I've ever voted," he said, "was in East Hampton. And then later, when I had my own family, in Vermont when we moved there."

Stanley and Andree Dean raised their boys in comfortable circumstances. The boys went to the Browning School in Manhattan during the week, but came out to East Hampton every weekend year around and then for all summer. The Deans were members of the Devon Yacht Club and Howard Dean has very fond memories of sailing in the bay there. He went camping and one time he and some friends camped overnight on Cartwright Island in Gardiner's Bay.

"Mostly, in the summertime," he said, "we went to the beach. Either the ocean at Main Beach which we walked to, or the Bay beach at Devon. It was a very peaceful and idyllic time. I remember taking bike rides everywhere. I remember snitching potatoes lying in the potato fields. My grandfather took me out on his boat fishing. We'd go out to the Point for bluefish. Out to the bay for blowfish or striped bass."

One of his brothers worked at Boy's Harbor for Tony Duke. In 1971, Howard graduated from Yale, with a bachelor's degree in Liberal Arts.

After graduation, Howard went to work on Wall Street. He worked there for two years, but he didn't like the city life. He was, at heart, a country boy. He missed the rural life that was the Hamptons back then. Also, the recession of 1973-1974 took hold. It was not an easy time to be in the investment business.

Who's Here

Howard Dean Presidential Candidate

His campaign HOWARD DEAN FOR AMERICA has touched a chord across the country.

The family endured a major tragedy the year Charlie, Howard's older brother, was captured in Laos and killed. It was 1975.

At this point, Howard Dean also thought he wanted to do something that would make a difference in his life. He decided he would become a doctor. And so he applied to, and was accepted at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in the Bronx and he pursued his studies there with the passion and thoroughness that has become his trademark. Finishing his studies, he was assigned a residency in a hospital in Shelbourne, Vermont, nine miles south of Burlington. In his senior year, he also met, in class, the woman he would marry.

"I saw her in the front row of one of my classes and after class struck up a conversation with her. She was a year behind me in her medical studies. We married the following year and I was able to arrange for her to do her residency in the same hospital in Shelbourne where I was. We opened a joint practice in internal medicine."

Dean was an active participant as a Democrat in the Jimmy Carter campaign in Vermont in 1980 and when it was over and Carter went on to the White House, Dean thought he might try his hand at running for office.

"Vermont is a small state, and we lived not far from the capital. I found if I ran for the State House of Representatives and I was successful, I could still continue my practice of medicine. So I decided to start a political career."

Dean was elected to the Vermont House of Representatives in 1982, and served until 1986 when he was elected as the Lieutenant Governor for Richard Snelling's Governorship. Snelling was a good governor, but in 1989, he died, quite suddenly, of a heart attack. He was 53.

"Now I was governor," Dean said. "We had two children, age four and three. To be governor, I would have to leave my medical practice to my wife. That was the bargain I had made as Lieutenant Governor. I would do that."

As governor, Dean actively pursued four goals. A conservative in fiscal responsibility, he decided that the State budget would have to be kept in balance. It is in balance today.

His second goal was to see to it that every child under the age of 18 has medical care. He succeeded in that goal and today every child in Vermont is provided the best medical care in the country, including dentistry and orthodontia.

His third goal was to see to it that every baby born in the state was visited by a doctor while still an infant. At the present time 91% of newborns receive this service.

And his fourth goal was buying the development rights to farmland in order to save it. He modeled his plan in Vermont on that of Suffolk County Supervisor John Klein, who created this unique program on eastern Long Island. In Vermont, Dean has saved millions of acres of farmland.

Dean served five terms as Governor of Vermont. During this time, he has been a less frequent visitor to the East End, though he always visits his mother every year over the Christmas holidays, and at least once or sometimes more in the summertime.

When Howard Dean announced that he would be a candidate for President last month, people gave him only the slightest chance of success. But his campaign HOWARD DEAN FOR AMERICA has touched a chord across the country. Early on, he decided on a new and novel way to raise money. He would ask that people contribute to his campaign on the internet. A mechanism would be set up that could make that happen. He has, to this point, raised $12 million, the third largest total of any candidate running for the Presidency as a Democratic Presidential Candidate.

Dean in Vermont fashioned the first Domestic Partner Registry to allow gay couples the ability to declare themselves. About 22 states in the Union have such a registry today, including New York.

I asked him what he would do if he were President.

"I would balance the budget. I would accomplish this by rescinding the tax cut put into place. We are about to have a $450 billion deficit. We have no business continuing this tax cut.

"I would institute health care for everyone in this country. At this time, we are the only industrialized country in the world that does not offer this. It is time we did so.

"I would make an active effort to find renewable energy resources. I believe that just with what we know today, we could provide 20% of our energy from such sources."

I asked him about whether he would sign the Kyoto accord pledging an active and vigorous effort to stop global warming.

"I wouldn't sign it as is," he said. "The Kyoto accord does not include anything at all about several developing nations, such as Brazil and China, two huge sources of future global warming, but I believe the wording can be worked on and a suitable Kyoto Accord achieved. I would sign that."

I asked him about the international situation.

"George Bush has destabilized the economy. And he has become a warrior president. I think it is time to reach out to the family of nations, either the United Nations or NATO about terrorism and Iraq. I don't believe we can leave Iraq to its own devices. Not at this point. That would create an even bigger threat to us than was there before we went in. We need to internationalize the situation. Immediately get other foreign troops in there to join us, particularly troops from Muslim nations.

"George Bush has chosen tax cuts over using money to buy the rich and unused uranium that is now available from the old Soviet Union. He has chosen tax cuts over having an oil policy. He has chosen tax cuts instead of properly funding our homeland security programs.

"There is a lot to do. And the American people, from the ground up, have always shown that when there is a job to do they are ready to do it. We have to do this."

Dean had a fundraiser to go to in the evening last Saturday night in the Hamptons. I spoke to him before he went, upon his arrival to the east end from New York City. He seemed to me to be a sensible, thoughtful presence, the kindly doctor in his early fifties.

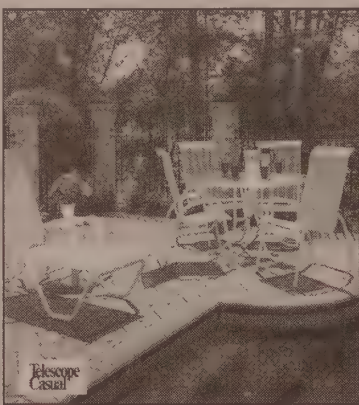

As chance would have it, the next day, Sunday morning I flew to Vermont for a brief 24 hour visit. I stayed at the Wilburton Inn, in Manchester, Vermont, about 20 miles north of Bennington and while I was there spoke to several Vermonters about what they thought of Dean.

He had been a practical governor, they said. He measured his words. He would say "this is a problem, and I have examined it and what I propose may not be the best answer, but I believe it is the best one we can do at this time."

People clearly loved the work he had done to provide health care to every child in the State up to the age of 18. It included everything, including dental care and orthodontia. Another program he passed, a program where wealthier school districts would give some of their money to disadvantaged school districts (there are Gold Schools that give and Receiver School that receive) got mixed reviews. The State, it seemed, was to some people too much in control of how these funds got moved around and used.

People seemed astonished that he was running for President. They saw him as a quiet Governor, a man in a grey suit, not some candidate full of fire.

But then, I thought, perhaps this thoughtful, measured man is what we need just now. Or per-

First (continued from page 36)

In 1975, however, historians looked further into that claim. And it was found that at that very same session of Congress, ANOTHER lighthouse was ordered built on the coast of North Carolina. And this one, in the order of things, came BEFORE Montauk Lighthouse.

Another defeat for the Hamptons. Another drop in rankings from number one to number two. When do some of our claims for number two turn out to be number one?

Some years ago, I went to visit a man named Charlie Vanderveer, who was a well-known farmer and auctioneer in these parts. He lived in a farmhouse on Scuttlehole Road in Bridgehampton, surrounded by several hundred acres of potato fields, and his home was filled with the junk and antiques from some of the estates he had been hired to auction off the contents of. That day when I came in, I found him leafing through a glossy English magazine that offered various English antiques for sale. I asked him what he was doing.

"I am mad at the Ladies Village Improvement Society," he said. He pointed at something in the magazine. A photograph of what looked to me like a pile of old lumber. "The good ladies are giving me such a hard time. They are so proud of their heritage. One of their buildings dates from 1671. Another from 1675. You'd think there was something sacred about being in charge of the oldest colonial buildings in East Hampton. I'm sick of hearing about it. So, I'm going to fix them."

I looked again at the pile of lumber.

"This pile of lumber is in Kent, England. It's an old barn, disassembled. Built in 1304. And it's offered for sale. I'm going to buy it, have it shipped to New York and then brought out here to Bridgehampton where I'm going to assemble it. Then we'll see which side of their mouths they intend to talk out of."

Vanderveer calmed down and never did what he threatened. But I'm wondering if anyone in recent times HAS imported a really ancient barn. I'd like to hear from them. Wherever it is, if it is here in the Hamptons, it will take back the title of oldest building from Cutchogue. Although, since the structure would not have been originally built here, I suppose, like Roger Maris and his 61 home runs in a longer season breaking Babe Ruth's record of 60, we'd have to put an asterisk after it.

David Nemer, Donald Pruden and Keif Roberts are shooting their debut feature film, "Fallout," at Pinewood West Studios in East Hampton from July 21-August 10. The following is David's ongoing diary of the making of the film.

July 18- It's hard to believe that by the time this prints, we'll already be four days into production. This entry will probably seem like it was written a short lifetime ago by then. And I'm afraid to wonder if that means we have a lifetime to go through these next few days to get there.

The good news is that I saw the set last night for the first time since last Friday and was blown away by it. Last week, we were having serious problems with the wooden floorboards—which are ultimately supposed to simulate concrete, squeaking as we walked on them. The stress was that we realistically only had one chance to solve the problem, and we weren't really sure if it would work. This week, Fred's solution was to apply a layer of homasote board over the existing floor and then build one more level of boards on top of it. The idea was that the homasote would act as a sound deadener. In nailing down the new floorboards, the crew then left quarter-inch gaps between them and filled the gaps with caulking to prevent friction and/or squeaking between the boards. It actually served to make the entire floor look even better. More importantly, I walked across it over and over again last night, totally straining to hear a sound, and not a thing came back. It was a huge relief. The entire process cost us a couple extra days in labor hours as well as the additional materials. But that definitely seems less painful now than when we were making the decision.

The surprise in all of this was that—despite the floor dilemma—Fred will still be able to deliver the kind of cinder block walls we planned for the set. Last Saturday, faced with new time and money constraints, we agreed on going with plaster-like walls, which would be easier and quicker to build. However, Fred did some online research and found Provost Display, a company in Pennsylvania that produces cinder block vac form, fabricated plastic sheets made to exactly replicate a cinder block surface. Fortunately, Provost Display was great to work with and reasonably priced. They did an emergency after-hours run for us on Tuesday and had the vac form delivered on Wednesday. It was discomforting to buy it based solely on a picture on the computer, but it turned out looking great and we think it'll ture America that is far more "multicultural" than in the past. Much higher percentages of student bodies are from minority groups and even college "majorities" are a diverse population in terms of geography, culture and religion. Our national leadership cadre will continue to reflect this fact as time goes on.

Equipping students for whatever work they choose in the future involves their exposure to a diverse sector of people of different backgrounds.

I hope to see at Boys and Girls Harbor on Three Mile Harbor in East Hampton, in the near future, the creation of a Harbor Environmental Research Center with accompanying library and hands on equipment and facilities for study by New York City and Suffolk County youths.

At the Harbor we feel strongly that every school in America should include major courses in Environmental Protection. This may seem a big thought, but when you think of it, most positive changes in society's history have had to start somewhere, generally with a mere germ of what's to come later.

Incidentally, for college graduates these days

there are good job opportunities in the field of environmental science and services. This applies throughout the nation. That says a lot!

A young friend of mine just graduated from college with a degree in Environmental Science. He's worried about the future, but not too worried.

"Now that I have this degree, I feel like a soldier who's been trained for battle," he wrote to me. "And there are many of us in my army, but we do need reinforcements!" That's the right stuff, the right spirit, the kind that can save our world haps what he saw as the failings of George Bush were rousing him to fire. Here is his most recent salvo, as posted on his web site.

1. Mr. President, beyond the NSC and CIA officials who have been identified, we need to know who else at the White House was involved in the decision to include the discredited uranium evidence in your speech, and, if they knew it was false, why did they permit it to be included in the speech?

Curtain. After that, in a land where rooms were lit by a single light bulb, the people wanted more. And eventually, that is what they got.)

Why would we want to deny the Shinnecocks the American experience? They live among us. They were even here before us. Their tribal ways should be honored. And we should help bootstrap them up into the modern world.

Given the reality of the speed of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, here is what the Town, County, State and federal officials from our community ought to do.

There should be meetings to consider what to do if the Shinnecocks are NOT successful in court. The lack of any American government help on the reservation is a serious problem. Maybe the private sector should step in. We have all these fundraisers out here. It's not all charity. There are fundraisers to provide scholarships to particular sorts of high school students. There are fundraisers to create medical clinics in less fortunate communities.

2. Mr. President, we need to know why anyone in your Administration would have contemplated using the evidence in the State of the Union after George Tenet personally intervened in October 2002, to have the same evidence removed from the President's October 7th speech? (The Washington Post, Walter Pincus and Mike Allen, 7/13/2003)

3. Mr. President, we need to know why you claimed this very week that the CIA objected to

There are fundraisers to support culture, school programs. There are fundraisers to support private schools.

The Shinnecocks should look to see how the newly formed OLA group, representing the Hispanic community on the East End, gets things done. People should not be so proud that they won't let others help them. The help is there to be got.

Then there is the possibility that the Shinnecocks WILL be successful in court, and that the hurdles of federal recognition and building on Shinnecock-owned land (in Hampton Bays) and not Shinnecock Reservation land can be overcome.

There is the fact that there are good places to have casinos in the world, and there are bad places to have casinos in the world. It is interesting, isn't it, that the Shinnecocks are not considering putting a casino on their reservation land, even though it is a larger piece of property than the land in Hampton Bays. There are issues of ethics involved with casino

the Niger uranium sentence "subsequent" to the State of the Union address, contradicting everything else we have heard from your administration and the intelligence community on the matter? (The Washington Post, Priest, Dana and Dana Milbank, 7/15/2003)

4. Mr. President, we urgently need an explanation about the very serious charge that senior officials in your Administration may have retali-

gambling, of addictions, of families spending all their savings not to improve themselves but just for, well, gambling. There are issues of the whole gambling way of life.

Then there are issues of traffic control. Maybe it would be meaningful to do a land swap, with a casino built in the vast former Grumman airport facility west of Riverhead, more than 2,900 acres, unused, surrounded by vast acreage of nothingness, of pine barrens, with a much clearer traffic pattern possibility.

From the vast experience of casino developer Ivt Ong, there has come the pronouncement that we can do this one way — working together — or we can do this the other way — working in opposition. Working together, in California and Arizona and New Mexico, has proven, in the long run, to work best. It is possible to oppose something in court. And embrace the planning of it if things do not turn out the way you want. The Shinnecocks can, after all, if they win, begin construction the very next day.

The Sheltered Islander By Sally Flynn

Observations of an Islander #258

Mother Tongue

France Bans the Term "E-Mail"

Friday, July 18, 2003 - Associated Press, PARIS - Goodbye "e-mail", the French government says, and hello "courriel" — the term that linguistically sensitive France is now using to refer to electronic mail in official documents. The Culture Ministry has announced a ban on the use of "e-mail" in all government ministries, documents, publications or Web sites, the latest step to stem an incursion of English words into the French lexicon. The ministry's General Commission on Terminology and Neology insists Internet surfers in France are broadly using the term "courrier électronique" (electronic mail) instead of e-mail — a claim some industry experts dispute. "Courriel" is a fusion of the two words.

If the French don't want English words seeping into their language, I say FINE! Two can play at this game. I checked with the Oxford Dictionary online and discovered that only 28.3% of the English language is composed of French or French origin words. I say, we can manage without them. I say, we get through our days easily without using one fancy Frenchy word. No longer will we grant the French carte blanche infusion into our culture! It will mean some hardship (sacrifices) on everyone's part to get used to the new speech (parlance), but we can do it.

Let me paint a specific picture (portrait) of life without (sans) French. First, we begin our day with a nice breakfast in an eatery (restaurant) of a nice island inn-keeping firm (hotel). We'll have a curved baked thing (croissant pastry) with a butter substitute (margarine) and some flat mixed eggs with stuff inside (omlette) and a dish of small orange fruit that is neither oranges nor peaches (apricots). We'll drink our coffee from a baked glazed surface (porcelain) cup and ignite a short paper tube filled with chopped tobacco (cigarette). So far, so good.

Reading the morning paper we see that people who try to be tactful (diplomats) are working on the latest take control by force group (coup d'etat) trying to topple existing systems of government (regimes), often headed by men dressed in green mottled (camouflage) clothes. We note sales at the meat choppers (butchers) store on steer (beef), calf (veal), pig (pork) and chicken (poultry), we decide to clip a few detachable tickets (coupons).

We meet (rendezvous) with our lover (paramour) for a movie in the afternoon (matinee). He drives (chauffeurs). On the way (en route) to the movie building (theatre) we are forced to take a less than desirable alternative road (detour). Because of the extra time (delay), there is a long line (queue). But because of our harmonious relationship (rapport), we don't mind the wait.

Afterwards, instead of an outdoor meal (picnic) we opt for a fancy (gourmet) lunch together. We have little eats (hors d'oeuvres) first and then we pick what we want (order a la carte) from the food list (menu). We'll have the bowl of liquid meat and veggies (soup) and a bowl of greens (salad), hold the whipped egg yolks and oil (mayonnaise) or other rich thick fluids (sauces). We use our best manners (etiquette) as we discuss the mistakes (faux pas) of the newly rich (nouveau riche) in the news.

Afterwards, we'll have a mindless game hitting a yellow ball back and forth (tennis). After which we will drop from extreme lack of energy (fatigue) and be taken to (travel) the hospital by way of (via) a really fast van with lights and sirens (ambulance).

You see now how easy it is to get rid of (discard) the hidden lot (cache) of French words from our one of a kind (unique) speaking system (language) that have pretended (disguised) to be English for all these years. Raw English has a certain something (panache). We feel a rebirth (renaissance) of linguistic pride. Think of the warm feeling (satisfaction) we can experience all together (en masse) by returning to our original (native) tongue with certain knowledge of how to do it right (savoir faire). English has a really great (terrific) reserve supply (reservoir) of sleeping (dormant) words to draw from. It will give us new joy of life (joie de vie) to speak true English. We won't let the French screw up (sabotage) our efforts to reclaim English. Consider it a done deal (fait accompli).

Ranch (continued from page 42)

ents ran Deep Hollow Ranch and the family is well liked in town. They have hired a lawyer and they are digging in their spurs.

The wagon ride experience continues and the wagons with the signs on them continue up and down downtown as they have for the past seven years.

The most outrageous part of all of this in my view is the determination of the Parks Department to forbid the Leavers from advertising downtown. Next they'll be telling them they can't even tell anybody about the service they are providing. This goes against the grain of everything this country stands for.

There are things that those of us connected with Montauk ought to do about this. The Chamber of Commerce, which is not controlled by the Parks Department, should gather together a list of restaurants that could deliver food to people about to go on the wagon ride and they should be a clearing house for this food-to-go service. It would benefit the local restaurants. And try as the Parks Department might, there is no law that says the taxpayers of this county and their guests cannot get dinner in packages on the side of the road and go into their parks with picnic baskets.

As for us, we intend to print, at our own expense, 100 posters about the ride that we will offer merchants in Montauk to put in their windows. The wagon ride is a draw for the town. Everyone needs to help out. The Parks Department does not control Dan's Papers or The Montauk Pioneer.

As for the wagons going up and down Main Street, the Leavers' attorney says they can continue. Photographs of the existing signs have been sent to the County for their review. If the County fails to respond, fine. If they respond by saying the Leavers cannot go ahead then I suggest someone else in Montauk go ahead with signs on wagons simply recommending the service. The Parks Department cannot forbid friends of the Leavers. (Can they?)

Montauk doesn't deserve this. And our county does not deserve a Parks Department that behaves like this. Until the County Executive begins an investigation of this bizarre behavior, the rest of us have to gather ourselves to help out the Leavers. •

Whispers

With Gina Glickman

Living History

Senator Hillary Rodham Clinton kicked off the first annual "Savor Long Island" program in an ongoing effort to promote Long Island agriculture nationwide. Senator Clinton shared with me her motivation behind her recent efforts.

"We are trying to tell the story that Long Island, which has more than three-hundred years of farming history, will begin to create more market demand so that people who live in the city and elsewhere will know to ask for LI wines, and other locally grown and harvested crops," said Clinton.

Senator Clinton is eager to make it legal to sell Long Island wines over the internet. "Well, there is a law in New York that prevents our vineyards from shipping out of state which is really an impediment, because I've personally served New York wines. I did it when I was First Lady in the White House, I've done it since being in the Senate, and people get excited and people want to know how to get them and they can't order them, or get them shipped."

Senator Clinton has her favorite Long Island produce, she told me. "Vegetables that are grown here are as good as you can find anywhere in the country or the world." Aside from agriculture, East Enders were eager to speak with Senator Clinton about her best selling biography, Living History, which has sold over one million copies.

"I was happy they identify with different parts of it, and I get a big kick out of it today. The common theme seemed to be this game that my grandfather taught me called pinochle. There's a lot of people on the East End that play pinochle." I asked Senator Clinton, why her book is entitled Living History? Clinton replied, "It is a ringside seat to history and you are living history literally when you walk through the door of the White House."

Even though Senator Clinton is an American political figure, a mother, and a wife, she still needs to unwind and relax just like the rest of us. "I make time for myself. I like to do as little as possible in my downtime — just chill-out do nothing. I like to go to movies, I like to read, take long walks, just take a deep breath and letting it all out."

Besides Living History, if you are looking for a few good books to sink into this summer, An Hour to Kill is a thrilling suggestion. Long Islander Karin Yapalater is a busy mother of two, a wife, and a first time author of that book. And if that's not enough, this psychological thriller has attracted Hollywood's attention! Just ask Marcy and Michael Warren, who helped put together a chic Hampton book party at their home in Water Mill that

5. Mr. President, we need to know why your Administration persisted in using the intercepted aluminum tubes to show that Iraq was pursuing a nuclear program and why your National Security Advisor, Condoleezza Rice, claimed categorically that the tubes were "only really suited for nuclear weapons programs," when in fact our own government experts flatly rejected such claims. (CNN, 9/08/2002, Knight Ridder News Service, 10/04/2002)

6. Mr. President, we need to know why Secretary Rumsfeld created a secret intelligence unit at the Pentagon that selectively identified questionable intelligence to support the case for war including the supposed link to al-Qaeda while ignoring, burying or rejecting any evidence to the contrary. (New Yorker, Seymour Hersh, 5/12/03)

7. Mr. President, we need to know what the basis was for Secretary Rumsfeld's assertion that the US had bulletproof evidence linking Al Qaeda to Iraq, despite the fact that U.S. intelligence analysts have consistently agreed that Saddam did not have a "meaningful connection" to Al Qaeda. (NY Times, Schmitt, Eric, 9/28/2002, NY Times, Krugman, Paul, 7/15/2003)

8. Mr. President, we need to know why Vice President Cheney claimed last September to have "irrefutable evidence" that Saddam Hussein had reconstituted his nuclear weapons program, an assertion he repeated in March, on the eve of war. (AP, 9/20/2002, NBC 3/16/2003)

9. Mr. President, we need to know why Secretary Powell claimed with confidence and virtual certainty in February before the UN Security Council that, "Iraq today has a stockpile of between 100 and 500 tons of chemical weapons agent. That is enough agent to fill 16,000 battlefield rockets." (UN Address, 2/05/2003)

10. Mr. President, we need to know why Secretary Rumsfeld claimed on March 30th in reference to weapons of mass destruction, "We know where they are. They're in the area around Tikrit and Baghdad and east, west, south and north somewhat." (The Guardian, Whitaker, Brian and Rory McCarthy, 5/30/2003)

11. Mr. President, we need an explanation of the unconfirmed report that your Administration is dishonoring the life of a soldier who died in Iraq as a result of hostile action by misclassifying his death as an accident. (Time, Gibbs, Nancy and Mark Thompson, 7/13/2003)

12. Mr. President, we need to know why your Administration has never told the truth about the costs and long-term commitment of the war, has consistently downplayed what those would be, and now continues to try to keep the projected costs hidden from the American people.

13. Mr. President, we need to know why you said on May 1, 2003, that the war was over, when US troops have fought and one or two have died nearly every day since then and your generals have admitted that we are fighting a guerrilla war in Iraq. (Abizaid, Gen. John, 7/16/2003)

14. Mr. President, we need to know why your Administration had no plan to build the peace in post-war Iraq and seems to be resisting calls to include NATO, the United Nations and our allies in the stabilization and reconstruction effort.

15. Mr. President, we need to know what you were referring to in Poland on May 30, 2003, when you said, "For those who say we haven't found the banned manufacturing devices or banned weapons, they're wrong. We found them." (The Washington Post, Mike Allen, 5/31/2003)

16. Mr. President, we need to know why you incorrectly claimed this very week that the war began because Iraq would not admit UN inspectors, when in fact Iraq had admitted the inspectors and you opposed extending their work. (The Washington Post, Priest, Dana and Dana Milbank, 7/15/2003)

If you can't or won't answer these 16 questions, Mr. President, I call on the Republicans in Congress to stop blocking efforts to create an independent, bipartisan committee to investigate what is a matter of the highest importance: whether your decision to go to war was sound and just.

The American public deserves answers to all of these questions. I urge you to lead with the honor and integrity that you promised as a candidate.

review: symphony for orchestra and train

By Dan Rattiner

Last Saturday, performers, musicians, engineers and staff of the Musical Festival of the Hamptons and the Long Island Rail Road attempted to pull off the world premiere of a musical composition that would include an entire Long Island Rail Road train as part of the performance. It was believed this had never been done before. Two rehearsals were held in the afternoon, and then, in a nail biter, the performance was held that evening at 9 p.m. with the twenty-five piece Atlantic Chamber Orchestra, Lukas Foss conducting, and the railroad train roaring past on the tracks beside the festival tent. There was a packed house of concert goers. If the timing was off, it would ruin the world premiere, and would disappoint not only the audience but the young composer from the University of Minnesota's Music School who had been flown in for the occasion.

The project, considered near impossible by some, had its roots last summer when a board member of the Music Festival, attending a Beethoven concert, observed the 8:05 p.m. west-bound train, arriving late, roaring past on the railroad tracks adjacent to the festival tent, on its way to New York. The sound of the train whistle, the rumbling of the train and the clickety clack of the tracks were completely ignored by the orchestra, which soldiered through Beethoven's "Prometheus Overture" without additional incident.

The 8:05 is the only train that passes the festival each evening during the twenty days of its performances, and most of the time, when the train is on time, the festival staff works the performances around it. On other occasions, such as the one the board member watched, the train is late or early and it is not possible. Why not compose a special musical piece that would include the train rather than fight with it? Thus began the long period of planning that culminated with the effort last Saturday.

The first rehearsal of the musical composition took place at four fifteen, without the train. On stage were the members of the Atlantic Chamber Orchestra and their conductor Lukas Foss, who is also the director of the festival. The hundred and fifty seats facing the stage were, for the most part, empty, except for a few reporters and photographers and video people who had come to watch the rehearsals, also Eleanor Sage Leonard the director of the festival, Sam Zambuto assistant director of media, the public relations director of the railroad, Steve Dickman, the manager of the festival, numerous friends and neighbors, and the composer of the piece, Mark Petering of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, a doctoral student in music at the University of Minnesota, who had been flown in to supervise the world premiere of his composition.

The train was not involved in this first rehearsal of the piece because the railroad is single track here by the festival tent. Numerous regularly scheduled trains go by during the day.

DAN'S 31st ANNUAL KITE FLY AUGUST 3

"Come Fly with me, Lets fly, lets fly away..." That time of summer has finally come. The much anticipated and hyped up 31st annual Dan's Papers kite fly is just around the corner, promising to go down as one of the best flys ever. People everywhere of all sizes and talents are eagerly awaiting the fly so that they can show off their talents.

It is even reported that several rap moguls, anticipating the event have been rapping about the kite fly. In one of her most recent songs, Lil' Kim states "We fly like kites never gettin' into fights. I got a whole bunch of dikes on ninja bikes." It doesn't take a brain surgeon to see how excited Lil' Kim is for the kite fly. I can only imagine how those who actually know about the kite fly must feel.

The kite fly will take place on August 3rd at Sagg Main Beach in Sagaponack, pending there is no lightning. Only those hoping for a truly electrifying experience will be expected to fly their kites in less than favorable weather, I however have opted just to stick my tongue in an electrical outlet. Shocking, isn't it?

Hopefully, the weather will hold allowing the sky to be filled with kites of all varieties. The kite competition will consist of 24 categories, ranging from most newsworthy to worst kite. For those of you who think it'll be funny to fly an imaginary kite and enter it in the most creative or abstract category, don't do it. It's not funny and I thought of it first.

For those of you who wish to attend the kite fly but do not plan on flying a kite, there are plenty of other activities which are sure to tickle your fancy, all of which are free to enjoy. So don't be cheap or shy, get your kites ready and head out to the beach for this splendid occasion. Bring the family or if you don't have one, just look at the other families and pretend you're with them, after all, nobody likes a loner.

The great poet Snoop Dog described the event best when he said "It's off the hizzle for shizzle." I have no idea what that means but Snoop Dog is famous and people listen to famous people. Heed Snoop's advice and come to Dan's Papers 31st annual kite fly, I promise you'll have fun.

have been the climax. There was a cymbal crash, and it was over. People applauded.

Five minutes into the window, at 4:35, the first rehearsal WITH the train took place. Sam Zambuto cued the train at the point in the piece where he and Petering had worked out it should begin its half mile run from the station. But the train, cued over a two way radio, was slow getting to the site. The cymbal crashed and the piece ended. Then the train roared by. Everyone groaned.

Recalculations were made. And a second and last rehearsal took place at 4:50 after the train had returned to the siding. The piece built, and this time Zambuto not only cued the train earlier, but he held up his two way radio so the engineer could hear the music as the train accelerated.

The first indication they had nailed it on the head came from the train itself. The sound of the rising crescendo of the music filled the tent. But they also were now being heard in the locomotive. In the tent, there was the clanging of a bell simulating the lowering of road gates, and then, with the ground shaking, there were the war-whoops of the engineer and supervisor from the cockpit of the locomotive. They could hear and see what they had done. The cymbal crashed, and the few people in the tent turned and saw them pumping their fists in the air in victory as their otherwise empty train roared by at thirty five miles an hour. The shouting and screaming affected those in the tent almost immediately. Even the orchestra, the piece over after the cymbal crash, joined in. They'd done it.

The performance at 9 p.m., in the fading glow of the evening, came immediately after an intermission. Before it, the orchestra had performed "Prometheus" and a particularly difficult modern piece, Irwin Bazelon's "Sunday Silence." Then the audience, a packed house, milling about in the lobby area, was called back to their seats. And a brief description about the world premiere was given from the stage. Mark Petering was introduced. And at exactly 9:20, just ten minutes before the end of the railroad window, Lukas Foss raised his baton and the tent went quiet. And then it began.

Quietly and carefully, conductor Foss spun the web of the early part of the composition, the violins and oboes ticking along. French horns and flutes joined in briefly and the piece rose and fell work.

Still, it's all coming down to the wire now to get the set completed by Monday. The vac form is sitting in a pile and needs to be applied to the walls, the floor needs a fiber glass treatment, the entire set still has to be painted, and after all this, we'll need to dress it with fixtures, props, etc. In short, it'll be an interesting, memorable weekend. I'm just thankful Fred agreed to work with us because it's frightening to consider where we'd be right now without him.

With all the activity and anticipation involving the set, we're actually pretty much matching it in other areas of our preparation as well. David Ott- along with making sure everyone arrives and is ready to go by Sunday night- has been running around to several local eateries that have agreed to provide lunch for us for a day, which will be a huge help. We've also had Shay Ansari, one of our actors, shopping throughout Manhattan and Brooklyn this week in search of his own wardrobe. He calls me several times a day and describes whatever he's looking at, and I usually respond with "Um... yeah, okay. Get it, I guess." I hang up wishing Keif would've written a bunch of characters that love Gap. Lastly, Donald is running on fumes as he jockeys his way between his job in Melville, rehearsals in Brooklyn, the set at Pinewood West and his final storyboarding wherever and whenever he can fit it in. He made me promise him a case of Red Bull for production.

In the end, as we head into production, it's pretty overwhelming to realize how much people have put into this project- with very little guaranteed repayment- and to see how far we've come. It still often feels like we're something between an illusion and a joke, and I look forward to when I can stop worrying about it falling apart or the ridiculousness of how serious we're taking ourselves. But there's an energy that builds when people commit themselves the way our group has, and there's an excitement and curiosity that comes along with it- to see what we can do in the three-week lifetime ahead of us, and if we can make it have any lasting affects on the one that comes after.

back, rose and fell back, each time quickening and rising toward its great crescendo. It is a short piece, only seven minutes in length, and as it passed the middle, you could see people in the audience furtively looking over to the rolled up side panels of the tent, looking at the tracks, wondering and waiting.

And then the crescendo arrived, the train appeared, hustling down the tracks, one or two seconds later than it had during the second rehearsal, and then came the cymbal clap and then two loud bursts of the train whistle and, at thirty five miles an hour, it roared through.

People leaped from their seats screaming and shouting. It was a grand slam home run, the winning shot of the World Series, and the standing ovation went on and on, perhaps for thirty seconds as the sound, of the train faded away.

Somebody handed Mark Petering a bouquet of flowers, and he leaped to the stage and held it aloft, running around in a circle as if he had just kicked the winning soccer goal, and the standing ovation, which had begun to fade, started up again.

I cannot recall the last time I have seen an ovation like this, except for the time that the Bridgehampton Killer Bees won their last basketball conference and the winning shot had guaranteed them a trip to the state championships, but that was five years ago. Here were people in tuxedos, in suits and ties and gowns, leaping around and cheering a performance that many later said made their hair stand on end as the train rumbled by.

There were congratulations all around. The crowd sat down and settled themselves in to listen to Tchaikovsky's "Serenade in C Major for String Orchestra," the companion piece to the "1812 Overture" which ends with the cannonfire. After that, actor Roy Scheider narrated a moving performance of Aaron Copland's Abraham Lincoln Portrait. And the evening was at an end. The audience went home. But the railroad officials, the festival officials and many members of the orchestra went to a party in Sagaponack afterwards to celebrate.

The following morning, the festival continued with another highlight, a performance of Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf," narrated by actress Phyllis Newman. The Festival ends this Saturday night at 8 p.m. with a performance and gala at the festival site, featuring The Collegiate Corale conducted By Robert Bass featuring Daniel Gortler performing the Beethoven Choral Fantasy. On Saturday, July 19, twelve North Fork vineyards joined Martha Clara Vineyards on Sound Avenue in Jamesport to celebrate "Anything" but Chardonnay and Merlot. Paired with fabulous hors d'oeuvres from Fauna Restaurant of Aquebogue, guests enjoyed tastings of over 35 different wines, including Martha Clara Vineyards' own award winning 2001 Ciel, Pinot Grigio, Viognier, and Gewurztraminer.

The sold-out event included a lovely horse-drawn carriage vineyard tour as well as the opportunity to explore MC's fine art galleries. "I thought it was a great opportunity for all of us to showcase the different wines that we make other than Merlot and Chardonnay," said MC owner Jacqueline Entenmann. Indeed it was.

LEGENDARY SONGWRITER HUGH PRESTWOOD AND FRIENDS AT BORGHESE

The East End Arts Council, together with Dunemere Realty, sponsored a Suffolk Times Wine Press concert at Borghese Vineyard on Saturday, July 19, featuring Country Western hit-makers Hugh Prestwood, Michael Johnson, Angela Kaset and James Dean Hicks. Hugh Prestwood, an award winning songwriter and resident of Greenport, has penned songs for Judy Collins, Randy Travis, Crystal Gayle, and many more. He is married to the very talented Times cover photographer Judy Ahrens. Hugh and friends shared their songs both humorous and sweet for a night we will long remember.

Listing an address for Claudio's is akin to giving one for the Montauk Lighthouse. For so many patrons over so many years, a visit to Greenport would be incomplete without indulging in a meal here, and one can only wonder what the founder, a Portuguese sailor named Manuel Claudio, would think if he were able to revisit this charming institution today, which has the distinction of being the oldest, family-run restaurant in the United States.

To have succeeded for 133 years means that the Claudio family, now in its fourth generation of ownership, has to be unrelenting in their pursuit of customer satisfaction.

Upon entering the restaurant, you see a spectacular bar, which was rescued by Manuel from a Bowery bar being demolished in 1885 and shipped to its present site by barge. It is lovingly preserved and a seat here on a summer evening is obviously a place to be coveted! The dining room is on two levels and both offer views over the water, coupled with a wide variety of photos and artifacts from years gone by.

Claudio's has a new executive chef, Michael Ruggiero, a Californian who has cooked on both sides of the continent. He explained that, now that he has settled into the restaurant, his intention is to maintain the well-established dishes but also to bring in daily specials that reflect the Portuguese and Mediterranean ancestry of Manuel Claudio. Michael is emphatic about fresh ingredients and is fond of saying to the staff, 'Would you serve this plate to your mother?"

We sampled one of Claudio's famed martinis and a glass of Borghese Chardonnette as we selected our tasting meal. For appetizers we started with some of the plumpest, most succulent Chesapeake Bay oysters we have ever had the pleasure of tasting.

Jackie, our very helpful and friendly waitress, spoke so eloquently about the merits of the baked clams, one of the star dishes at Claudio's, that we would have been churlish to refuse them. They proved to be exceptional, with a wonderful texture and tangy taste that put them light years above the normal restaurant variety. Steamers and Prince Edward Island mussels also were everything they should be, sea-fresh, plump, and served with broths that complemented, rather than smothered, their delicate natural tastes. Yes, they also passed our dunking test with honors!

Even though the daily specials included some very tempting meat dishes, such as sautéed lamb tenderloin with risotto, we decided on this visit to stay with fish. We chose one of Michael's daily specials with the Mediterranean influence, baked swordfish stuffed with seafood, raisins, and pine nuts and topped with orange/lemon zest, garlic and parsley. It was served with delicate garlic mashed potatoes. We both agreed that this combination took the very fresh swordfish to a new level of complexity of tastes.

Crab cakes are also often a good way to assess the way dishes are prepared and Michael's were made from plenty of good blue claw crab meat, were moist inside and served with a delicate lobster sauce. The only query I had concerned the crust, which had a density and crispness that I thought detracted from the quality and texture of the crab mixture.

For dessert we sample the "Claudio Commotion," which is based on Haagen-Daz's "Cappuccino Commotion," served in a peanut-crusted dark chocolate cup, which went well with a cup of strong coffee.

Claudio's has been a legend on Long Island for many years. Sometimes legends fade but here the Claudio family and their excellent staff are determined that it will maintain its status as one of Long Island's premier eating spots. By the way, Claudio's also operates a number of other establishments on the quay that offer everything from a simple ice cream to a self-serve lobster dinner, and an enormous semi-outdoor Clam Bar has music and dancing at night.

—Roy Bradbrook

Appetizers, salads and soups range from $5.50 to $14; Main courses from $17 to $26; Desserts $5 to $6.50. The wine list is good, with several Long Island wineries represented, and the prices sensible.

Cooperage Inn. With a beautiful new look emphasizing the cooperage theme, this charmer continues to carry the banner of North Fork cuisine. Chef/owner Jonathan Perkins, along with chefs Laimo and Hegeman, produce inspired appetizers such as rare sesame tuna carpaccio and pan-seared fresh mozzarella, and don't miss the sesame crusted calamari served over field greens with a soy vinaigrette. Steaks are steakhouse worthy, and the rigatoni ala vodka continues to dazzle. Fish here is always pristine and cooked with a light hand. Coming this summer: outdoor Tiki bar. Entrees $15.50-$30. 2218 Sound Ave. Baiting Hollow. 727-8994. (Simm, 1/10/03). [B]

Do Little's. Very welcoming and unpretentious. An excellent menu for diners interested in fresh, smartly prepared dishes that are not calorically trumped up. Thai mussels in ginger/lemongrass broth hit the mark. Excellent pasta dishes, headlined by justifiably famous Seafood Pasta in white wine sauce, filled with mussels, clams and shrimp over linguine with fresh tomatoes and spinach. Stuffed ravioli with sundried tomatoes and mozzarella is beautifully done. Sensibly priced wine list, with a knowing nod to local vintages. Entrees, $12.95-$19.95. Rt. 25, Mattituck Plaza, Mattituck. 298-4000. (Bradbrook, 7/28/01). [G]

Fauna. A hip and elegant culinary gem. Co-owner and consulting chef Mark Mittelman's menu astutely incorporates Asian influences into superbly conceived New American dishes. Tuna sashimi shines as an appetizer, as does duck confit atop sautéed spinach with walnuts and dried cranberries. Try and find room for the butternut squash pot stickers. The all-star cast of entrees includes Southeast Asian steak salad, pan-roasted bourbon chicken and a Napoleon of roasted vegetables. Desserts rotate daily. Extensive wine list with sixteen local vineyards. Entrees $20-$26. Route 25, Aquebogue. 722-5813. (Trueman-Honey, 6/7/02). [A,F]

Ile de Beaute. In a beautiful old house with courtyard tables, the spirit of Provence is alive in Greenport with highly authentic French cuisine. Its treatment of classics like escargots, French onion soup, and frogs' legs runs the gamut from superb to extraordinary. Rack of lamb, served with rosemary sauce reduction, is masterly. Desserts are tasty and the crepe options are best expressed in exponential notation. Service is deliberate but attentive. Entrees $24-35. 314 Main Street, Greenport. (Bradbrook, 7/12/02). [C,H,J]

La Cuvée Wine Bar & Bistro at the Greenporter Hotel. Gourmet bistro dining adjoining a hip boutique hotel footsteps from Greenport's vibrant downtown. The casually upscale dining room creates a pleasing environment for a light and adventurous menu. Seafood appetizers like tuna tartar and the sublime mussels in coconut and lemongrass broth bear an unmistakable Asian influence. But executive chef / owner Deborah Rivera's culinary artistry really announces itself when the entrees arrive. Long Island duck in an orange-infused coconut sauce is impressive enough, but topped by her otherworldly Chilean Sea Bass poached in a miso-sesame broth. Exceptional wine list, with by-the-glass offering many pleasant surprises. Entrees, $21-$26. 326 Front Street, Greenport. 477-0066. (Bradbrook, 4/25/03). [S]

La Plage. Exciting and imaginative haute cuisine just steps away from a Long Island Sound beach. Chef/owner Wayne Wadington's menu undergoes constant revision, reflecting his selection of premium ingredients or his latest inspiration for a sauce. His creations fly off the menu almost as quickly as off the plate, but if you have the chance, put in for the Yukon Gold potato soup with an oyster beignet, the roulade of local crab with succulent micro greens or the Griggstown Farm quail in smoked bacon. Superb wine list. Exceptional desserts. Entrees $22-33. 131 Creek Road, Wading River. 744-9200. (Bradbrook, 11/1/02). [R,V]

Modern Snack Bar. Home-cooked meals away from home await you at this charming family-run restaurant operating since 1950. Wittmeier brothers' time-honored menu contains dishes too good to go out of style. Delectable sauerbraten is perfectly tender and the stuffed cabbage very good. Duck breast salad, recently introduced, is another winner. Crab cakes and lobster salad are real treats, but the big surprise is the world-class shrimp and crabmeat quiche. Home-baked desserts are splendid and their take-out pie business is brisk. Wines are mostly limited to local vintages. Reservations not needed, but day or night, it's always a crowded house. Entrees, $9-$17. Rt. 25 Aquebogue. 722-3655. (Bradbrook, 10/4/02). [T]

Pepi's. Dazzling panoramic views of Peconic Bay and sumptuous Northern Italian cooking combine for a sensuous dining experience. Appetizers include a highly flavorful vegetable antipasto and a fresh tri-color salad of arugula, radicchio, and endive. Penne ala vodka, often predictable, is anything but here. The penne is served perfectly al dente and the sauce is both smooth and smoky. Also delicious is chicken Sorrentino, with eggplant, prosciutto and fresh mozzarella. Come dessert, do not miss the tiramisu, co-owner Nick Nikolov's specialty, an all-time keeper. Entrees $16-19. Port of Egypt Marine, Southold. 765-6373. (Bradbrook, 6/8/01). [K,O,Q]

Red Door. Red Alert! Stephan Mazzella, formerly of Lespinasse, has opened a fine new restaurant in Mattituck. His menu is quite versatile and his consistently tasty dishes excite the palate. Typically adventurous and successful is the pan-seared monkfish with a yellow tomato sauce and black olive purée topped by crispy fried leeks. Mazzella's treatment of fish epitomizes Greek and Italian-style preparation at its best. The appetizer of heirloom tomatoes with bocconcini mozzarella and fresh basil and balsamic vinegar is a tomato dish for the ages. Innovative desserts, too. Entrees - $16-$28. 13560 Main Rd., Mattituck. 298-4800. (Bradbrook, 6/14/02). [E,N]

Dan's North Fork

Ross' Rotisserie and Smokehouse. A casual, homey eat-in or take-out spot opened by John Ross, former chef/owner of Ross' North Fork Restaurant. Great rotisserie and crispy fried chicken; marinated, honey-glazed duck legs; hickory-smoked spareribs; homemade soups and chowders; many cooked-from-scratch side dishes. Every Friday fish fry is an excellent value. A special 6-pound LI duck, cooked crisp, boned and quartered, accompanied by duck sauce and a garnish of apricots and cranberries ($19.99) is available by reservation the day before. Open 7 days 12-8. Route 48, Southold, 765-9655. (Simm, 10/5/01). [U]

The Seafood Barge. The North Fork restaurant for fish lovers. Owner/manager team of Dick Ehrlich and Betsey Flinn are as fanatical about results as Steinbrenner/Torre. Newly imported executive chef Michael Meehan updates the menu's standards and introduces several of his own specialties. Vichyssoise spiked with crab meat and basil oil was a rousing success. Marinated baby octopus with baby spinach was succulent and tender. As for the fish, the sushi appetizer continues to be stellar. The pan-seared striped bass with a red pepper broth is a revelation. Desserts are sensational. Excellent wine list, particularly local vintages. Entrees $24-$32. Port of Egypt Marina, Rt. 25, Southold. 765-3010. (Bradbrook, 7/26/02). [M,SF]

The Shady Lady Restaurant. The Zorn family's vision of stately elegance comes to the North Fork in this grandly unique dining room. Two rooms actually, with dinner jackets de rigueur in the Scarlet Room and a more casual ambience pervading the lodge-like Pine Room. The menu keeps apace with the opulence of the surroundings. Chef Ross Essner's cosmopolitan cooking style is globally savvy, but local-ingredient particular. Especially breathtaking is the lobster risotto with diver scallop and asparagus. A superb cheese plate complements the dessert choices and the wines are as excellentlychosen as they are reasonably-priced. 305 North Road, Greenport. 477-4500. Entrees, $28-$38. (Bradbrook, 7/18/03).

Sultan's Kitchen. At last, a good, authentic Eastern Mediterranean for the region. The emphasis is on Turkish cooking, one of the world's healthiest cuisines. The spacious dining room is non-descript, as this is a former pancake emporium; the subtleties are all in the flavoring of the food. Soups such as red lentil and tripe are spiced just right. The varied appetizers favor vegetarians while the main courses concentrate on lamb and chicken, often with delectable results. Turkish baklava and kadayif are exceptional finishing touches. Entrees $6.50-$15.95. 1077 Old Country Road, Riverhead. 369-9766. (Bradbrook, 8/9/02.)

Tuscan House. Your table is yours for the evening at this elegant, upscale Italian. Authentic, classical dishes bear the deft touch of chef William Oster. His fish is exceptionally fresh and his osso bucco masterly. But his virtuosity lies in the care with which he pairs his 16 pastas and his sublime sauces. The results range from delicate to intense. Pappardelle with a puree of beans dressed with soppressata, fresh chilies, garlic and parmigiano reggiano is typically adventurous and winning. The dessert tray is filled with excellent choices. Well-chosen wines, emphasis on regional Italians. 673 Osborn Ave., Riverhead. 727-2330. (Bradbrook, 9/7/01). [I]

Touch of Venice. Top-notch Italian cuisine in a delightful setting on Mattituck Inlet. Named appropriately for location, cuisine and a large mural dominating the dining room, this is family dining par excellence with a sophisticated ambience. Among the kitchen's highlights: Orient Point oysters, chilled but not icy; baby spinach salad with gorgonzola; black Angus porterhouse. Manicotti in a fresh, simple tomato sauce is among the many pleasing pasta dishes. Lobster Meat over angel hair pasta, a frequent special, is an exciting dish of imaginative complexity and one of the North Fork's perennial favorites. Cold seafood bruschetta is another special to watch for. Entrees $16-$34. Wickham Avenue at Matt-A-Mar Marina, Mattituck. 298-5851. (Bradbrook, 8/16/02). [L]

Tweed's. One of the Island's most atmospheric dining rooms couples with an imaginative menu in the historic John L. Sullivan Hotel. Owner Ed Tuccio raises buffalo in Riverhead and his restaurant serves outsize portions of bison meat cooked to perfection in a merlot reduction so exquisite, it demands to be bottled. The quite versatile menu also features Chef Jeff Trujillo's first-rate crab cakes. Seared scallops in champagne sauce with grapes and onion marmalade brought terrifically creative accompaniments to the often pairing-resistant bivalves. Ambitious desserts boast great variety, with Strawberries Romanoff particularly winning. Entrees $19-26. 17 E. Main St., Riverhead. 208-3151. (Bradbrook, 8/30/02). [D, P].

HOME FOR THE SUMMER... By David Lion RATTINER

There is something to be said about the sport of skydiving. Well, I guess that it is not really a sport. It seems like it is more of an act of faith. As far as I can tell, the whole deal is this: You go up in a perfectly good airplane, strap on a parachute, a helmet and some clear sunglasses, then jump out of the plane and fall. I think that the part when you fall and your chute is not open is called freefall.

After a little freefalling, you pull on a cord, this gigantic banana shaped blanket flies up, and you float down to the ground like a leaf falling from a tree. You land gently on your feet and the banana blanket falls on top of you in a friendly, glorious way. Once it's all done, you feel like the king of the world.

I can see how doing something like this could be a real rush and a lot of fun. I get why people do it and why so many people are fascinated by it. What I don't get, however, is all of this sudden talk amongst my friends about wanting to skydive. What are they, out of their minds? We could be killed. The chute might not open; it happens all the time. How can you put that much trust in a couple pieces of rope and a parachute? The rope could easily snap or worse yet, the chute might not even open at all.

I can't imagine that. You finally make the decision to go out and just do the thing. You get up to the right altitude, pray, and jump out into the open world of the atmosphere where there is nothing but clouds and air. All you see is the ground, slowly getting closer and closer.

I have seen videos of people skydiving and I never get why the ground does not get closer and closer the way you think that it should. When you watch a video of a guy or girl skydiving, they appear to be falling. It is obvious to you because their hair is blowing up and their arms and legs are sticking out. Yet when you look below them and focus on the ground underneath, nothing seems to be happening. I would imagine that the second you jump out of the plane it would appear that the ground is getting closer and closer. This would make sense considering that it IS GETTING CLOSER. Just waiting for you to open the chute, or not. Either you float down to the ground with a light touch, or you hit the ground and go splat. These are your options.

I really can't imagine the chute not opening. What do you do if the chute doesn't open? Do you call for help? Try to fix the chute in mid air? I guess that is what I would start doing. I probably wouldn't panic all that much. I'd do everything calmly and quickly, thinking of everything I could to get the stupid chute open. It is either that or I would start yelling out words that are really only appropriate for magazines and not newspapers.

I got this call the other day from my friend Peter. The conversation went like this.

"Dave?"

"Yeah Pete, what's up man?"

"I'm thinking that we should go skydiving."

"I don't know what to say."

"Will you do it with me? I'm trying to get Tom to go. I think that he'll do it if you do it."

"I don't know man. What if one of us dies?"

"Well, at least we will die doing something that is really cool."

"What if it is you that dies and not me? I'd feel pretty bad man. I mean what if we all made it and you didn't? We'd regret it for the rest of our lives."

"Dude the chute is going to open. Besides if we do it, we will go tandem with a professional. If the chute doesn't open then the professional guy dies, too."

"Well that's good. Two people dying is better than one I guess."

"Seriously will you do it? I want to do it."

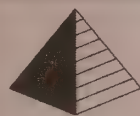

"I'll think about it man."

Click.

Thus I am yet again in another dilemma. Skydiving. Whoever thought of this is a real jerk, as far as I am concerned. It is like the guy that invented motorcycles. Do something that is really cool, yet the possibility of being killed is extremely high. I love things like this, yet I hate things like this.

Yes, I do think it would be amazing to go skydiving. I saw that movie Point Break with Keanu Reeves at least five times when I was in high school. You practically fly! It is probably the closest that any human being has ever had to feeling like Superman. It looks like it would be one of the coolest things that I could ever do. If I did it and lived, I would never forget it.

But what if I didn't make it? Or worse yet, what if one of my friends didn't make it? This would be terrible. I can't even imagine what it would be like. I don't get Peter's logic of "dying doing something really cool." I don't want to die doing something really cool. I don't want to die period. But if I had to die, I'd want it to be when I was a lot older and did all of the cool things in my life that I wanted to do. Like travel the world, get married and go skydiving. Ahhh! I'm so frustrated.

Charter Auction: Luxury Made Easy

Wouldn't it be great to have your own plane wait for you, leave on your schedule, have all the goodies you like on board and still not pay the exorbitant prices that private jets are known for?

Well now you can with CharterAuction.com. It's making price a factor in the private jet marketplace, a marketplace never before driven by price. And, let's face it, everybody likes a good bargain that doesn't skim on quality or safety.

CharterAuction.com is a new kind of jet charter service. Over the past two years it has become the de facto standard in jet charter because it can provide the same planes, the same FAA approved pilots, the same high safety requirements, and the same extras offered by other services, but at significant savings over those other jet charter services.

Typically, customers can save 60 percent on one-way fares (also known as empty leg fares) and 15-30 percent on many round trip flights using CharterAuction.com's exclusive, online network. Prices quoted are all-inclusive including landing fees, fuel surcharge, crew overnights, and Federal taxes (extras may include catering, de-icing and flight phone).

How can CharterAuction.com do this? It's the nature of CharterAuction.com's business operation. Its one-of-a-kind online network – developed solely by CharterAuction.com – that enables exclusive, continuous, online contact with its network of more than 750 world-class FAA approved operators. Through the operators over 2,700 different kinds of aircraft – from turboprops, to small, medium, large and heavy jets – are available to CharterAuction.com customers.

How It Works

When a customer submits a bid either on the phone or via the Web, the trip information is instantaneously posted online to CharterAuction.com's entire network of charter operators. The customer chooses the closing date he/she would like all bids to be final. The closing date for the bids can be from a few minutes, to a few hours, to a few days after the trip information is submitted.

Because CharterAuction.com's technology has created an online community of jet charter operators who all see the same trips posted, it is up to the operators to determine by price how much they want that trip.

The operators submit online bids on the cost of the trip. Customers can watch live, online, as operators compete for the business and the price of the trip goes down. Prices go down because CharterAuction.com's online networked commu-toon that pictured a guy shopping for a car, looking at a new GM Hummer H2. The buyer said something like this to the salesman, "Actually I was thinking more on the lines of a helicopter gun ship." Which brings me to my last pet peeve: cars are simply getting too big. Too big to back up, to park, to feed, or even to fit in a normal garage. By the way, in Germany, if you buy a huge SUV, the police impound it, chop it up in little pieces and give the metal scrap to BMW. One SUV makes about three Mini Coopers.

nity helps operators make more efficient use of their planes and enables fast, easy access to more trip opportunities.

"It's a reverse auction that allows jet operators to bid on trips," said Nate McKelvey, CEO of CharterAuction.com and a pilot in his own right. "The more the operator wants the trip, the more attractive the price will be for the customer."

In addition to instantaneously posting trip information to operators, the technology automatically searches through CharterAuction.com's database of over 200 empty leg or one-way fare availability at any given time. This database is the largest listing of empty legs available anywhere and can provide excellent savings on travel. The network then also quickly provides customers with lists of available empty leg options to their travel destinations.

Members of CharterAuction.com's operator network also must meet extensive safety, training and inspection requirements before being accepted. All jet operators must be FAA-Part-135-Rules-certified and must adhere to CharterAuction.com's strict aircraft, insurance, FAA and auditing qualifications.

Professional Staff

CharterAuction.com's team of professionals provides clients with perspective on craft differences, regional airport conditions and aviation market trends. They also help clients analyze options and evaluate bids. Among team members, there is more than 50 years of professional aviation industry experience.

Members of CharterAuction.com's team are available to customers 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to help them step through the decisions of private jet charter, making trips easy, comfortable, and affordable. Only requiring two hours notice to arrange a flight, the CharterAuction.com team is available to guide customers through their jet charter decisions and assure that they arrive on time and on budget. At the customer's request, CharterAuction.com can also arrange catering and ground transportation. The company also handles air-ambulance and freight trips.

Additional Cost Saving Programs

In addition to single trip opportunities, CharterAuction.com also offers additional technology driven programs that help customers save money and still travel in style, on time, and on budget. These programs include:

Share A Jet Program - After a traveler chooses a jet charter plane (from returned online bids), CharterAuction.com can further reduce the cost of the trip through its online Share A Jet Program, by posting any available, unused seats online. For instance, suppose a customer has chosen a Lear Jet to take her from San Francisco to New York. The Lear seats eight people, but she only need two seats. She can elect to put those other six seats back on the CharterAuction.com's network to see if there are others who are interested in sharing her time and destination requirements. If so, the cost of her trip per person comes down considerably. If all eight seats are taken, the cost of the trip per person is comparable to first-class or business class tickets on a large commercial jet.

Block Charter Auction - This program helps customers who desire to purchase increments of 25 hours of flight time or more. The customer provides a desired departure airport, number of flight hours, and aircraft category (i.e. small jet, medium jet or large jet). CharterAuction.com will announce the request to its network of over 700 of operators and the operators will be invited to submit bids. Bids will include hourly flight leg, ferry leg (used when the aircraft is repositioning empty), overnight and wait time rates. Once booked, CharterAuction.com will provide platinum level concierge services, additional lift when required and help fill empty ferry legs to further reduce the cost of flying.

EAST END KID

ON THE CIRCUIT

A kid with a connected mom gets to go on the party circuit too, so I got a chance to stop by the PlayStation 2 House during party weekend. I went on Sunday when it was still a scene, but much quieter than the night before, and got a chance to lay down on a chaise like those slim models from around the world, but no movie or ad guys came over to offer me a contract. I did meet the Waksmans who own a bunch of hotels in the Hamptons and their adopted little boy and we all took a picture together.

POLO

I've been hearing polo-polo-polo around the house so I whined and cried until mom and dad agreed to take me – and I got into the VIP tent. The ponies were beautiful, with braided hair and long legs – or am I talking about the women in the tent? I was interviewed by the Schimizzis of VVH-TV, and I like being on TV but think I need to expand my vocabulary beyond 50 words first. While I was being interviewed I was totally distracted by Pizza by Scotto – hey, I have my priorities.

THE LIBRARY – THE KIDS HOT SPOT IN THE HAMPTONS

This week I went every day to the library in Southampton and read, played, and participated in the “laptop” with Dad. No not the laptop with a mouse – it is lap-time story reading which was fun.

CHILDHOOD MEMORIES

Every Friday I go to Childhood Memories in Southampton. It is a fun musical experience with kids and their parents. I did create a new childhood memory of my own when I saw my dad looking pretty silly as he skipped and danced around the room playing little instruments. Go Dad!

SUPER SATURDAY

This Saturday is an event my mom is excited about and I am too because I get to go. It is Super Saturday – to benefit the Ovarian Cancer Research Fund and it is one of the real kid-friendly events of the summer. While moms shop at the designer garage sale there is a whole carnival with food, rides, games, and lots of activities for us kids. It is at Nova's Ark Project in Water Mill. For info call OCRF at 800-873-9569.

And don't forget Tuesdays After the Beach CMEE events at Water Miller Community House, and kids events at Bay Street Theater and Guild Hall.

Saturday 6". It will be sold eventually with all proceeds donated to Ovarian Cancer Research Fund.

Put on your comfy shoes, a big sun hat, lightweight clothing and step into the world of fashion, beauty products, home furnishings, and accessories, and “Shop ‘til You Drop” with the best of them. Oh, and don't forget your checkbook and credit cards...It's all for such a good cause, in more ways than one! See you there!

Until next year. “Ciao and Happy Super Saturday” Shopping!

“Super Saturday 6” ticket prices are $375 for adults and $100 for kids (kids under 5 are free); $500 tickets include an exclusive preview-shopping hour from noon – 1 p.m.; tables and sponsor packages are also available beginning at $2,500. # Silvia Lehrer's Cooking Column

Remember ices? That frozen confection, so soothingly cool and slushy that we ate out of pleated paper cups or when frozen on a stick we called it a Popsicle. Well it is simply fruit juices mixed with simple syrup (boiled water and sugar). The Italian granite is a close relation to our "ices". The sugar content of both is fairly low.

In a recent cooking class I introduced espresso granite to my students. Essential to the recipe is that the espresso be made in an espresso machine. Lacking one, I called upon Jason Belkin, one of the proprietors of Hampton Coffee Company in Water Mill. In accordance with the recipe I picked up a three-espresso-size cup container of freshly roasted espresso made in their espresso machine. The reheated espresso made an exceptional and authentic Italian ice a few hours later.

French sorbet or Italian sorbetto has a slightly higher sugar content. However, the addition of egg whites or gelatin gives sorbet a creamier texture. Both egg whites and gelatin are the modifying ingredients that act as a stabilizer. Either preparation is incredibly easy to make.

Ices and sorbet can be made with a variety of fruits and berries and even herbs, such as rosemary and mint. For pleasantly cool yet elegant desserts for these dog days of summer, scoop up a refreshing ice or sorbet into wine or champagne glasses, and rim the glass with a sprig of mint.

ESPRESSO GRANITE

A granita is a dessert made of very fine-grained frozen crystals of coffee or fruit syrup. One of the most popular granita in Italy is by far Granita di caffè, or coffee ice.

Yield: 6 servings

3 cups espresso
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon sambuca
1 tablespoon dark rum
Cinnamon for garnish
1 cup whipped cream with 2 teaspoons sugar for garnish (optional)

1. Prepare the espresso and dissolve the sugar in it while the espresso is still hot. Stir to cool and add the sambuca and rum. Refrigerate until well chilled.

2. Transfer to a shallow baking tin or 2 ice trays and freeze for 30 minutes until ice crystals begin to form around the edges. Stir mixture and return to the freezer. Continue to stir every 30 minutes or so until the liquid is frozen, about 3 hours.

3. When ready to serve. Lightly sprinkle with cinnamon and garnish with freshly whipped cream if desired.

SPARKLING WINE GRANITE WITH STRAWBERRIES

Icy-cold crystals of granite garnished with strawberries and mint to cool the tongue for the warm days ahead.

1 pint ripe strawberries, rinsed and hulled
2 tablespoons plus 1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon plus 2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
2 tablespoons chiffonade of mint leaves
1 tablespoon orange liqueur, Grand Marnier or Triple Sec
6 tablespoons water
2 cups Asti Spumante or other sparkling wine
1/2 cup fresh or half-diluted frozen orange juice
Mint sprigs for garnish

1. Slice berries into thick rounds and place in a bowl with 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, mint and orange liqueur. Stir gently to mix, cover and let stand for an hour or two.

2. Meanwhile, in a shallow nonreactive saucepan, combine remaining 1/2 cup sugar and water and bring to a boil, stirring until sugar dissolves. Simmer briskly for 10-12 minutes until mixture is syrupy. Let cool. Add Sparkling wine, remaining lemon juice, and orange juice. Transfer to a stainless mixing bowl, cover and freeze for 4-5 hours or longer.

3. To serve, scrape granite into large crystals and spoon into chilled wide-mouthed wineglasses or dessert dishes. Spoon over berry sauce and garnish with a sprig of mint.

Silvia would love to hear your comments or food theme requests. Please e-mail her at Silvia@danspapers.com

APRICOT SORBET

Scoop into a hollowed-out pineapple shell garnished with fresh berries for a dramatic presentation.

Yield: 6 servings

3 cups water
1 cup sugar
1 1/2 pounds fresh apricots
Zest of 1 orange
1/4 cup fresh orange juice
1-2 tablespoons orange liqueur, Grand Marnier or Cointreau
1 egg white
Mint leaves for garnish (optional)

1. Combine water and sugar in a saucepan and stir to dissolve. Bring to a boil, adjust heat to a brisk simmer and cook for 15-18 minutes until liquid is syrupy. Remove from heat.

2. Meanwhile, rinse and pit apricots and cut the flesh into small pieces. Puree in work bowl of a food processor or blender and, with a rubber spatula, scrape into the syrup. Add orange zest, orange juice and liqueur and stir to mix. Transfer to a mixing bowl, cover and refrigerate for 1 1/2 hours.

3. Beat egg white until stiff but not dry and stir into the apricot mixture as well as possible. Pour into a shallow baking tin or 2 ice trays and freeze until firm. Cover securely with foil and freeze. Can be prepared ahead to this point.

4. Several hours before serving spoon the sorbet into a chilled bowl and whisk or beat in an electric mixer until mixture is creamy. Cover bowl with aluminum foil and freeze until ready to serve. Scoop or spoon into wineglasses garnished

What is it about Greenport that commands our attention? Is it the setting, perched snugly on the shores of Peconic Bay? Leaving aside the geography, perhaps it's the quirky mercantile character of the village: Charming specialty shops everywhere with not a single retail chain store in sight. And let us not forget the skyline. Yes the skyline. Particularly at the intersection of Front and Main, two-story Victorian buildings cut an intriguing zig-zag against the low sky. Throw in numerous exciting restaurants and the answer is clear: Greenport's uniqueness lies in the fact that it is the sum of countless unique parts.

One great thing about summer can be ditching the boring old supermarket and shopping some of the great markets for local goodies. Here are some great places where you can stop by to pick up delicious prepared food and great ingredients faster than you can say baby arugula: In Southampton, Captain Phil's East End Clambakes is a new destination for fuss-free seafood. Captain Phil now offers for takeout the seafood dishes his catering company has become famous for. Who needs crowded restaurants when you can take home seared tuna or lobster cocktail? They're at 726-5360. Water Mill may be a small potato but it does boast Citarella, which is a great one-stop destination if your list is long. You name it, they've got it. (Wainscott is 726-3636 and East Hampton is 324-9190). In Bridgehampton there's Loaves & Fishes (537-0555) and another long-standing favorite in Wainscott, The Seafood Shop (537-0633). A new entry on the East Hampton scene is Bogo's Food Spa (329-1004) which has become THE spot to hit for fresh organic produce. While you're there, sample something cool from the juice bar which, after all, you may need to revive you after a day of food shopping in the Hamptons.

TOM VALENTI'S HAMPTON RECIPE OF THE WEEK

MAIN BEACH SCALLOP BAKE

Serves 4

24 ounces sea scallops
2 fresh tomatoes, seeded and cut into a 1 inch dice
1 dozen leaves fresh tarragon
1 tablespoon capers
2 tablespoons fresh parsley, chopped

2 tablespoons lemon juice, fresh squeezed
2 tablespoons white wine
3 tablespoons MacNut™ Oil
fresh ground pepper
Kosher salt

Grilled scallops are generally hard to handle unless skewered, so try this handy way. Take 20 inches of aluminum foil, place on a table and create a lip all the way around the foil. Place the scallops on one half on the lipped foil. Mix all the other ingredients in a stainless steel bowl and spoon over the scallops. Fold the remaining foil over the scallops and firmly seal around the edges. This can be prepared 2-3 hours in advance, but no more. Preheat your grill and if you have an upper shelf, place there; if not, directly over the medium heat will do, close, and cook for 8 to 10 minutes—the scallops should still be translucent in the center. This can be served either immediately by cutting open the foil, being careful of the steam and dividing equally onto 4 plates. This can also be served as a cold fish salad by simply chilling overnight, depending on your weekend plans. If you prefer, this dish can also be cooked in a preheated 375°F oven for 8-9 minutes.

Dining In The Hamptons

This one-year young gem nestled on Noyac Road in Sag Harbor may look simple on the outside, but once you enter this restaurant you will truly feel as though you are in an Oasis. Overlooking Noyac Harbor, Oasis has an atmosphere that makes you feel as though you are in the tropics; rattan furniture, banquet seating accented by comfy taupe oversized pillows, dramatic floor length off white curtains and huge potted palms complete the light, summery and airy feel. We started off our meal with cocktails at the bar – the drink menu offers many sweet and tangy concoctions; we sampled two including the delicious key lime martini and the cool and refreshing mojito. The four of us were seated at a table by the window to take in the beautiful colors of the sunset. Immediately upon sitting a basket of crunchy warm bread arrived accompanied by two Mediterranean dishes of hummus and calamata olives. Our attentive and efficient waitress took our order after we debated over the appetizing menu.

Our appetizers arrived swiftly, wafting tantalizing aromas. We sampled one of the special appetizers of the evening a salmon cake served with a tangy horseradish sauce. The plump cake was moist and tasty and a perfect match for any salmon lover. The next starter was the smoked 1/2 lobster with a potato & leek stew with mache & tarragon salad topped with truffle oil. The lobster was rich and tender while the stew of potato and leek added a nice complement as did the exquisite truffle oil accent. We also tried the cavatelli pasta, which was adorned with a flavorful topping of bacon and wild mushrooms and a light and tasty sweet pea reduction. Finally the standout appetizer and the unanimous winner among us was the calamari salad. The crispy yet tender calamari was tossed with frisee and a spirited mix of cashews, toasted coconut and an orange chili vinaigrette, which gave the dish an interesting Asian flavor. There was even a declaration that it was the best calamari ever!

As we enjoyed the flavors of our appetizers our entrées arrived peaking our taste buds for the second courses. Again we sampled one of the specials of the evening – a Mediterranean dish of perfectly seared sea scallops topped with a savory olive tapenade served with delicious andouille sausage over orzo mixed with sautéed spinach. Another seafood entrée ordered was the tender filet of grilled blue nose snapper paired with grilled scallops and shrimp for the full seafood experience. And to top it off the fish was accompanied by luscious Peruvian lobster mashed potatoes that were a wonderful invention. Being seafood lovers we also sampled the delectable grilled scallops served with a yummy corn and parsley risotto with the perfect consistency and just the right flavor. Finally we opted for a meat entrée and went right for the steak. A grilled prime 12 oz. N.Y. strip grilled to perfection and served with an innovative side of marinated tomato and red onion salad and spicy fries seasoned with a Cajun kick and served with a zesty garlic aioli for dipping. All in all we were impressed and quite satisfied with our meal.

Of course we saved room for dessert, which is always my favorite part of the meal. We ordered three but the chef was kind enough to send out two additional desserts, which were specials for the evening. Our first choice was an apple crisp chock full of sweet apples topped with a crunchy sugary crust and vanilla gelato. We also sampled the trio of crème brûlées, which featured vanilla, chocolate, and banana flavors. All three were creamy, tasty and topped with a perfectly crisp crust. Our favorite was the banana bread pudding, which was decadent with its caramel rum sauce. The special desserts sent out included a Bailey's tiramisu, which featured layers of cake and cream kicked up a notch with the smooth taste of Bailey's liquor. And the last taste was the scrumptious fig crepe paired with exceptional cinnamon ice cream.

Linger after your meal in the newly appointed lounge where late night music accompanies the tasty drink concoctions. Aside from the drinks we sampled there is also a pineapple margarita, watermelon martini, appletini, raspberry bellini and the signature drink Oasisitini to quench your thirst. For anytime in the evening head to Oasis; it's a great spot for pre-sunset drinks overlooking the water, a delicious meal with inventive cuisine and tasty flavors or after dinner drinks while socializing in the comfortable yet stylish lounge and bar area. One evening here and you'll know why they name fits so well – it's the ultimate oasis in the Hamptons.

Confessions of a RESTAURATEUR

Most restaurateurs consider the Palm Restaurant to be the granddaddy of East End establishments. In East Hampton for over twenty years, the Palm was the first restaurant to hang a meaningful shingle here. Everyone else, with the exception of the Laundry, arrived well after it. The evolution of the restaurant business in the Hampton's is a pretty new phenomenon.

Years ago restaurants would come and go, changing with no recourse and no remorse. Done... Here today, gone tomorrow. Open in May; do a bunch of business in the summer. Close in September. The space known now as the Farmhouse restaurant had been seven different restaurants during the prior eight years. Do the names Spring Close, Jack Straw's, The Ballpark, Violets, or Beach Plum sound familiar? That was but five of the previous names. Enough to scare you out of opening a restaurant at that location. Fortunately I didn't know.

Today it costs hundreds of thousands of dollars for what is called "key-money" – the amount to open the doors of a new restaurant. And that doesn't count the $8,500 to $15,000 it costs in monthly rent. It's virtually impossible to start a restaurant from scratch. If you're not "pre-existing and non-conforming" it's almost impossible to meet the standards imposed by the Suffolk County Health Services Department. In East Hampton you can close a restaurant and open a dress shop but you can't close a dress shop and open a restaurant. And so existing restaurants have become very valuable.

In addition to the many smaller (and many terrific), "ma and pa" restaurants that have opened in the past ten years, East Hampton today boasts five or six high quality, fine-dining establishments that either are, or border on, being world class restaurants. The Palm laid the groundwork for this current luxury. At the beginning, they had no frame of reference and were winging it. Part of their deal when they first opened was a "live" piano in the living room of their beautiful old inn. Could you imagine a piano player today? "Excuse me Mr. Spielberg. Did your party come in to spend $1,000 for our four-pound lobsters or to hear some live piano? It's changed. It's a real business. It took quite some time for the Palm to become the "Palm of East Hampton" as we know it now. They paid their dues. The Palm made it safe to open a serious restaurant here. Gradually there was an influx of more substantial people opening restaurants in the Hampton.

Nick & Toni and Della Femina brought the restaurant business to the next level. Suddenly business people with deep pockets were entering the fray. Steve Ross, the late and beloved Chairman of Time Warner, opened Nick & Toni's supposedly for his many friends (many of them serious celebrities) to have a place to congregate. He built a million-dollar wine cellar in the basement of the restaurant. A million-dollar wine cellar was quite a commitment and was certainly a far cry from Ma Bergman's, the spaghetti house that was there previously.

In 1994, Joe Phair opened Bobby Van's and that single handedly opened the floodgates for Bridgehampton to become the trendy restaurant strip in one of the quaint villages of the Hamptons. If you asked about the excitement he created he would probably give credit to his very creative French doors that, when open, give the impression of no doors at all and resemble cafes in St. Tropez. Crowds flocked from day one. The beginning of "see and be seen."

In 1997, Pacific East and the Farmhouse opened within days of each other. This changed everything. The restaurant bonanza was spreading to Amagansett. These fine-dining establishments had almost 500 seats between them. The owners were not necessarily rich people with an expensive toy for their friends but rather business people who had to work their butts off to be successful. Restaurant goers now had choices. The circle was complete.

Unbashed Tout of the Week: Roberta Gosman, (that's her name on the door of Gosman's Dock restaurant in Montauk) still roams the dining rooms, menus in hand, making everyone feel at home. Some say they've become too commercial, some say too touristy. I say they (still) have the best fluke I ever had. I've been ordering fluke at Gosman's for more years than my wife is old and, if anything, it keeps getting better. Everything, including their famous lobster, is fresh off their own boats. I was told there are ten people with the last name Gosman working there. Now that could be the answer.

Dining In The Hamptons

When you walk down the cascading entrance to Tide Runners, nestled under a thicket of trees, you are at once taken back by its location. Few restaurants, even in the Hamptons, can compare with its unique ambiance.

Sitting on the edge of the Shinnecock Canal, which was built in 1892, under Chief Mongotucksee or Long Knife, The Chief of the Montauks, you get a sense of history. The restaurant, which can boast about location, location, location, got its name after a local fish that runs with the tide. Secondly, when the locks are open, the two bays collide directly in front of the restaurant.

We were seated by Kevin, who told us in his heavy brogue that he and a couple of his friends from Ireland, came to this country last year, and stayed in Manhattan, but he added, diverting his eyes towards the scenery, "This is grand. This is just grand."

Approximately 30 seconds after Kevin left us, our waitress, Christine, came up to us with a smile and asked, "So, how's the service so far?" We all laughed. There's nothing better than a waitress with a good sense of humor, even on one of her busiest days of the year. (By the way, the service was great!)

At sundown, the bar scene was "happening." They offer a full bar and a full wine list. We were fortunate to hear the sounds of "Twister," a live Reggae band that played mellow Caribbean music. With the combination of all that's good, it finally felt like this is what summer is all about.

The owners of Tide Runners are James Carroll, Justin Dwyer, Tom Dollard, Chris Glynn, and Stephen Ryan. When asked what they consider to be one of the strongest characteristics of the restaurant, Stephen said, "With five principal owners, we are all hands on, with combined 60 years in the bar and restaurant business, as well as professional manager that has raised the level of service with a chef owner in the kitchen." Stephen also owns the Big City Bar & Grill in New York City, and James, two nightclubs.

Chris added, "It takes a lot of combined effort and we all put our experiences together to make it work."

My husband and I sat at a corner table on the edge of the decking, which was lined with festive red, white and blue tube lighting and flame torches. It was surreal, as a train passed by on the closest bridge, silenced by the strong current that ran by us. It was as if we were sitting below the Sony I-Max Screen. The second bridge, further in the distance, gives perspective to the view, as motorists pass in what appears to be matchbox-size cars.

We thought it couldn't get much better, but it did! Then the food came! After the roasted garlic soup with portabella mushrooms ($6), we sampled a few appetizers – the steamed "Prince Edward Island" Mussels in a tangy white wine sauce and bits of tomatoes ($11), and a very generous Pan Seared Lump Crab Cake with roasted pepper aioli ($12).

For entrees, we enjoyed one of our favorite dishes, the Gorgonzola Crusted Filet of Beef with Roasted Garlic Sauce ($28), and the Grilled Tuna Steak served over Sesame Noodles with Spicy Wasabi ($23). All the fish here is Fresh! Fresh! Fresh! and that is obvious with every bité.

Every night of the week, Tide Runners has a special event, like Margarita Mondays ($4 all day), which is Prime Rib Night ($15.95); Two-pound Tuesdays, which is 2 -lb. lobster dinners ($24.95) and Pina Colada ($4 all day); Wednesdays, which is "Lobster Night" 1 lb. lobster ($14.95) and $4 Cosmopolitans, all Day; Thursdays, which is Clam Bake night and $3 Coors light all day; Fridays "World Famous" Happy Hour 4-7 p.m. ($3 Miller Lites & Red Stripes); Saturdays – come watch the boat parade at 12 p.m., and Sundays is "Fun Day," with brunch 11-3:30 p.m.

This restaurant bar marina is open seven days a week for lunch and dinner with live music everyday and a DJ on Sundays.

As we enjoyed our choice of outdoor dining, which is as "grand" as the lad from Ireland had promised us, Mother Nature provided us with a continuous cool bay breeze. We noticed we weren't the only ones taking in the view, as a couple across the canal pulled up in their station wagon, took a card table out of the back of their car and set up wine glasses. They toasted one another along the roadside.

At times, we felt as though we were front row at a sporting event, being entertained as boats worked their way through the current of the locks of the Shinnecock Canal. All sorts of boaters passed in all types of boats, including a 30-foot flashy looking race boat named Deuce's Wild.

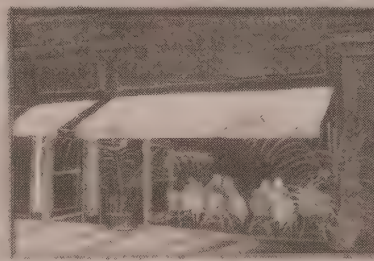

Whether you come by car or boat, it is a dining experience set at an extraordinary setting. As one of the owners reminded me, "People never get tired of fresh seafood in the summertime." Tide Runners also accommodates private parties and weddings. It is recommended that you make a reservation. You will be delighted.

Dining In The Hamptons

Located in the charming village of Quogue, The Inn Spot is a welcomed departure from the fashionable high decibels and expensive affectations of your typical Hamptons eatery. The restaurant opened for breakfast and lunch on New Year's Eve in 1999 and has just recently added dinner service on Friday and Saturday evenings. With that addition, Chefs Pamela Wolfert and Colette Connor have created a dining experience that manages to be both gourmet and family-oriented.

The space itself is cozy, simple, and intimate. Customers are greeted in the front, which serves as a gourmet shop and coffee bar during the day, and are seated by the gracious staff in one of two adjoining areas. Artwork by East End artists hangs on the walls. On a recent Friday evening, it seemed as though every other customer was a local, greeted warmly and personally by Connor. One woman, who happened to be sitting next to us, assured Connor that she chose to return to The Inn Spot for its wonderful food. Touches like these contribute to the country feel of The Inn Spot, but its delicious food at very reasonable prices strengthens the restaurant's appeal.

Wolfert and Connor have a zeal for authentic ingredients. Everything on the menu is made from scratch; all herbs are grown behind the restaurant.

The Inn Spot

Their eclectic menu is full of character and flavorful dishes. And while it is changed on a weekly basis, on this particular night it could best be described as "Asian Southern fusion".

Our meal started with a series of diverse appetizers. Some continued with the Asian, Southern theme of the menu, while others drifted into traditional American cuisine. We began with fresh olive bread, roasted garlic, and hummus. The garlic was tender, but not overcooked. The hummus was tangy and fresh. Shrimp and crawfish spring rolls with a Vietnamese dipping sauce followed. They were crisp, crusty, and meaty. We could actually taste chunks of shrimp and crawfish, and the piquant dipping sauce made the entire dish light and flavorful. Similarly, our shrimp cocktail was full of plump, juicy pieces and a fresh sauce.

The appetizer sampling continued as we were served an Oriental salad. Prepared in a cabbage leaf with bok choy, red and green cabbages, bean sprouts, carrots, and a sesame soy dressing on the side, it was light and summery. The vegetable terrine with a tahini sauce was one of the more unusual, but equally delicious, dishes. A paté with roasted vegetables, it is made entirely without any animal products. Finally, the house-cured gravlax with seven-grain toast points, capers, and sauce dijonaise was robust and smooth. The salmon was flawlessly salted and the punchy mustard and capers added the perfect accent to the hearty bread.

The main courses provided a mixed bag of casual and refined eating. Some, like the chicken fried chicken with country gravy, mashed potatoes, and creamed spinach, could have been flown in straight from the ol' South. The mashed potatoes were utterly authentic. Simultaneously creamy and chunky, they were adroitly seasoned and a perfect partner for the velvety smooth spinach. The moist chicken was accompanied by a crisp, crunchy crust. The shrimp po boy with southern potato salad was light and zesty. Served on a fresh baguette, a subtle and flavorful sauce enhanced the fish, while the potato salad was abundant with chunks of red potatoes and hard-boiled egg.

A salmon steamed in parchment with carrot flowers and julienne of courgette was the perfect dish for the more health-conscious eater. The vegetables were fresh and retained their flavor while adding the perfect seasoning to the well cooked fish. In addition to these main dishes, The Inn Spot also offers a gourmet pizza menu, featuring the recent favorite Quantuck Pie, a homemade crust topped with Duck, Scallion, Hoisin sauce, and Fresh Mozzarella.

For dessert we set our sights on the chocolate bread pudding topped with a dollop of crème fraîche. A crusty exterior with a moist core, the luscious pudding brimmed with flavor, and the crème fraîche was rich and smooth.

Overall, The Inn Spot provides creative cuisine in a gracious setting. Connor, a 20-year veteran of the East End restaurant scene who has managed the American Hotel and the Paradise Cafe, both in Sag Harbor, brings a level of expertise to the creation of each dish. She also runs a catering service out of the location. Wolfert, new to the restaurant industry and a seasoned art gallery owner, contributes to the look of the restaurant and its support of local artists - many of the pieces on display are for sale. Together, they have created a place that defines casual, country dining.

ART COMMENTARY With Marion Wolberg Weiss

ARTS/CRAFTS AND EDWARD ALBEE AT LONGHOUSE

Part 3 on the nature of arts/crafts

Observing that East Hampton's LongHouse Reserve is an arts center in the complete sense of the word is stating the obvious. While some people often perceive its glorious grounds as primarily a sculpture garden for significant artists, the LongHouse is much, much more. Synergy is afoot at every level.

The memorial celebration for Ed Rossbach and Peter Voulkos places the current exhibit's focus on crafts: Mr. Rossbach's arresting textiles and Mr. Voulkos' imposing pottery. Even so, we know that both gentlemen make art, although their particular medium may be designated as a "craft."

Mr. Voulkos' exterior pieces evoke many disparate references: characters from Star Wars; armored knights from the Middle Ages; even vehicles from World War II. Such evocations derive from diverse origins, of course, but we can't help but ponder whether they are images we recall seeing in photographs and movies or whether they come from our imagination. The works seem both ancient and contemporary at once.

Edward Albee's annual impromptu performance and lecture also confronted a similar issue: the part memory and invention plays in the writer's endeavors. (As an aside, we assume that Mr. Albee's lecture was probably not similarly impromptu as he is or was a capable and articulate university teacher.)

Mr. Albee's intriguing explanation and demonstration are also related to our other topic suggested in this special "Art Commentary" series: is creativity partly art and partly craft? Simply put, we wonder if memory is craft and invention is art?

While Mr. Albee did not categorize memory and invention the same way, he did explore which was which in his plays. Noting that "We all write from the limits of our experience," Mr. Albee demonstrated how he took facts and transformed them into truth, how some characters, for example, from The Zoo Story originated from experience.

Conversely, Mr. Albee says Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe is a product of invention. Pausing after the statement, he adds, "Then again, when we imagine something we're not sure it hasn't come from deep inside."

Yes, Virginia, Mr. Albee can contradict himself anytime he likes. It's what makes him an important playwright. And an extraordinary artist/craftsman.

The memorial exhibition will be on view at the LongHouse Reserve until September 13.

HONORING THE ARTIST: MICHAEL PARASKEVAS

This week's cover is by Michael Paraskevas. He's lost track of how many covers he's done over the past fourteen years with Dan's Papers. Besides doing the weekly cartoons for Dan's lead stories, a job he refuses to give up, he's an accomplished illustrator who has worked for most of the major magazines around the world. His work also appeared on three of the Hampton Classic posters, which have always sold out.

Betty Paraskevas, Michael's mother, has written eighteen children's books including the very much loved Junior Kroll series. Three of their books have served for the foundation of three animated series: Maggie and the Ferocious Beast (Nick), Marvin the Tap-Dancing Horse (PBS) and The Kids from Room 402 (Fox). Betty and Michael supervise all aspects of production and Betty writes the majority of scripts for the Maggie series.

Always at work on something the mother and son team have new show in development with Warner Brothers/ Cartoon Network, Nelvana (Canadian TV) and a "Green Monkey" movie deal with Paramount.

Plans for Green Monkeys will include taking the strip daily to papers across the country. Michael says that it's a mountain of work but the two green heroes are so much fun that doing a daily strip seems like the logical next step for them.

Michael's Gallery is located in Westhampton Beach and is open every summer evening. You can see original illustrations from all their books besides large-scale beach paintings like the one on the cover.

The Quogue Library is hosting a special exhibit of Michael's bookwork the month of August.

Call the Gallery at 288-3812 for information.

theater review: rules for aging: the musical

Roger Rosenblatt, the well-known and multi-talented nonfiction author, debuted his first musical at Southampton College's Avram Theater last Saturday evening. Since Rules for Aging: The Musical is subtitled "a one-person play for two persons," the audience is immediately alerted to mischief afoot.

With performer/newswoman Jane Pauley and endocrinologist Dr. Peter Weissman as composer/accompanist, Rules for Aging tries to be a topical musical spoof in the form of a lecture with slide illustrations and song. It is somewhat punny, filled with collegiate and writerly allusions, and mildly amusing. The problem is that it tells and does very little showing, which would make it more dramatic and theatrical.

There are several surprises during the performance. Miss Pauley carries a melody well, and she has possibilities as a comedic actress. Mr. Rosenblatt gives a credible Rex Harrison-style delivery to the talk-song "The Life I Was Meant to Lead." Dr. Weissman can write a passable tango ("Rules for Aging"), ballad or country-and-western tune.

Another of the surprises—writers Frank McCourt and Robert Reeves as "planted" audience members are included in the "Ask Roger Anything" part of the show. And the audience is asked to sing along (follow the prompt bouncing over the projected lyrics) in a few places.

As for the "rules," they are a bit of a spoof as outlined in Rosenblatt's best-selling book of the same title, "a self-help experience ...like the Ten Commandments without the guilt." The first rule is "It doesn't matter," i.e., no one will remember whether you were a genius or a fool, good or bad, etc. This rule is sung as a tango and the song has its witty moments.

Another rule is "Be not witty; neither shalt thou be clever" or you may find yourself ostracized. Jane Pauley dons a red boa to illustrate with this Mae West-type ballad, "I'm the wittiest gal in town."

The rules go on and on, as does the show. It could use cutting and some of the humor is collegiately sophomoric. Southampton College's talented theater director Michael Disher helped shape the production which is reportedly headed for Manhattan. With all the Rosenblatt and Pauley (if she stays with the show) fans, it could have a brief run.

—Jan Silver

The show was part of the Southampton College Writers Conference whose teachers this summer included Rosenblatt, McCourt, Walter Mosley, Amy Tan, Billy Collins, Bruce Jay Friedman and Peter Matthiessen.

Mares: Oceans

This exhibit will be shown at Solar in East Hampton and will present the works of Ani Villanueva, Jorge Pizzani, Jerónimo Valdes, and Lucía Pizzani and invited designer Titina Penzini. Organized by Provita, part of the sales will be donated to the Procosta program of this ecological organization.

In a planet where 70% of the surface is covered by oceans, and a third of the world population lives in coastal zones, contamination, exhaustion of fishing, and extinction of species are only some of the consequences. Various worldwide organizations work to obtain solutions; Provita is one of them. Mares is part of a project developed by the International Affairs of Provita, uniting art and ecology, searching for new ways to spread the word about environmental problems, the achievements of their projects, and to raise funds and consolidate efforts which have been developed for more than 15 years. Previously, Provita has organized similar events like the Amazonas exhibition in the gallery of the Consulate of Venezuela in NY (August 2002), opening up to new audiences and continuing to foster the interdisciplinary character of the organization.

This year Provita joins Solar, a gallery directed by Esperanza León and specializing in Latin American art and design that has managed to open an important space for artwork that is not yet widely known and appreciated in the United States.

All the works chosen for the exhibit are inspired by the natural wonders of marine ecosystems. Ani Villanueva, a long-time environmentalist has been representing coral, fish skin, as well as other marine organisms in her paintings since the mid nineties. Jorge Pizzani built his house and studio in the rainforest of Turgua, on the outskirts of the city of Caracas, and has always worked with natural landscapes as a theme for his paintings. As a Chilean, the ocean is very important to Jerónimo Valdes, and after studying marine biology for two years he turned to digital photography to express his interests. Lucía Pizzani, in turn, works for Provita since 1997 and her art permeates her ecological affinity through abstract organic images.

—Linda Aziz

Solar is located at 132 North Main Street, East Hampton, next to Nick & Toni's Restaurant. For more information, please call 631.907.8422 or go to 8-group.com/mares. The realization of Mares is made possible thanks to the contribution of the Karan Weiss Foundation, Solar, 8-Group, Topsis Magazine and Rums of Puerto Rico.

Award-winning writer, publisher, cartoonist, cartographer, and raconteur Dan Rattiner is the founder and editor of Dan's Papers where he has chronicled the fables and foibles of the Hamptons for more than forty years.

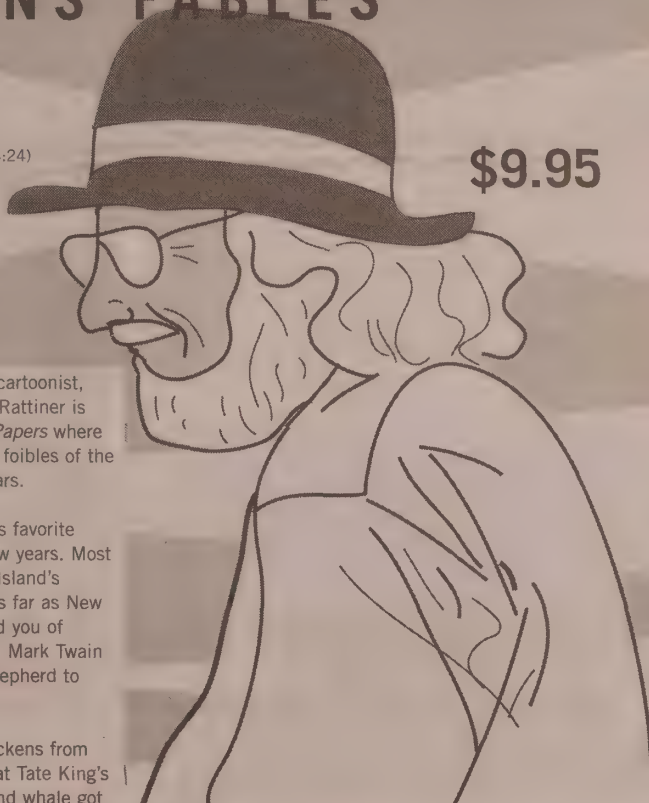

On this CD Dan reads some of his favorite stories from issues of the past few years. Most document the local lore of Long Island's famous Hamptons, some range as far as New Zealand and Mars. All will remind you of classic American humorists, from Mark Twain to Ambrose Bierce, from Jean Shepherd to Garrison Keillor.

You'll hear about the refugee chickens from Survivor enjoying their last days at Tate King's North Sea Farms, how an East End whale got buried on Staten Island, why North Dakota is like Shinnecock Hills, the plan for New Zealand's sheep-gas defense—and much, much more!

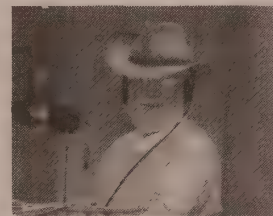

Dan Rattiner has a unique take on the world that will grab you. You'll find yourself returning again and again to Dan Rattiner's Hamptons Fables—each time you'll leave laughing!

Guy de Fraumeni's Hollywood 1n The Hamptons

For the Victorian action film, The League of Extraordinary Gentleman, the ever-stalwart Sean Connery wears the hat of an Executive Producer. As star of the movie, Mr. Connery is costumed in a very wide-brimmed hat that he wears with the same authority he's given to James Bond. Alas, it's obvious that the large shadowy hat sits easier on his head than that of producer of the screen version of a recent comic book concoction that must have been an answer to the lack of literacy in the comic books image. (Calling the comic book a "book" seems amiss, somehow) Therefore, some enterprising folks recruited a bunch of literary (public domain) characters and, formed a League, headed up by Allan Quatermain (if you know who he is). This is Mr. Connery's role, playing him at a later age, and, another alas, the big hat suits him better than the growling, rumbling opium-habited codger with age worries. A dead give-away is the removal of the hat. It reveals a toupee that looks like something dead, given away by the president of TV's Hair Club of America.

The collection of classic book heroes, besides Quatermain, who is a legendary explorer and hunter (now you know) include: the picture perfect Dorian Gray, the sodden pirate Captain Nemo, Dr. Jekyll and, a Hulky Mr. Hyde, an Invisible Man (not The Invisible Man, still under copyright) and a pale looking ex-Mrs. Dracula and, added by the movie's makers, I'll ol' Tom Sawyer, grown up but, young enough for U.S. teeny boppers. The British Secret Service has gathered the gilded leather and dust covered booksters from oak library shelves world-wide, to combat the dreaded Fantom (not Phantom, another protected franchise) who would conquer the world after first sinking Venice, which even then, was half sunk. The rest of the movie doesn't aspire to a lot, either. This costume drama of doom and gloom is just that not much more. It is a dank disappointment from the director of the thoroughly grand, Blade. Fantasy hardly fits this hyperactive, retroactive boil-like bump on the super hero highway to fame and fortune.

The League Of Extraordinary Gentleman

Bookish, it ain't. It's roots stem from the boxed set of comics written, inked and color stained by Alan Moore and Kevin O'Neill. Oscar Wilde would not consider the redrawn portrait of Dorian a dandy. Nor would Robert Louis Stevenson be amused by the flaws of resentment enjoyed by his characters in The League. H.G. Wells would be horrified by his Invisible Man raping school girls and, Dracula, himself, would be dismayed by one of his victims thinking of herself as a "fallen woman". However, Mark Twain is probably getting a big laugh out of crafty Tom becoming a U.S. Secret Service man. Hey! Golly, fellas, some of the characters you created might finally get to be statue replica take-homes from MacDonalds. Immortal classics, at last!

Another form of fantasy is being dished up in Northfork, by Michael and Mark Polish in big Mac Style, meaning they're as similar as possible to the others they've served us before. Their earlier, Twin Falls Idaho and Jackpot were arty, osententia-cious, weird and rampant with sad, sad emptiness. Plenty of seeded bun and pickle and gooey sauce but, no calories or satisfaction. Sandwiched into an allegory of 1952 flavorless Americana are Nick Nolte and James Woods pressed under the weight of a huge concrete dam displacing the town of Northfork. Hence, the title, which may have confused, some of us South Fork people. Their Northfork is on the Great Plains and from hunger. Remaining residents? A guy with two wives and an ark. A cowboy, an angel with amputated wings, and, aw, pshaw!

Guy-Jean de Fraumeni is the producer/writer/director of award-winning European and American feature films. He has been a judge at Major Film and TV award competitions, including the Oscars, the Emmy's and various film festivals. He is assisted by Sarah Halsey.

Cliff (continued from previous page)

Star Tribute have introduced a new generation of listeners to the singer's message of brotherhood and peace for the world. "I want to stimulate and motivate people to appreciate life - it's my calling," says Cliff. "My way of serving is through music, so that's what I have to do."

The Reggae Sunset Festival will be held on Friday, August 8th, 6 p.m. at Nova's Ark Project, 60 Millstone Road, Bridgehampton. Tickets are available in advance at www.jambasetickets.com or by visiting Long Island Sound in East Hampton and Southampton.

All In The Details: Executive Detailing Of The Hamptons

As the owner of Executive Detailing of the Hamptons, I am often asked for advice on how one can detail his or her own car. I suppose that people feel that 11 years of experience gives me some sort of expertise in this area... Therefore, I've decided to write an article for anyone interested in keeping up the condition of their pride and joy, their car. I will discuss the rights and wrongs of detailing and some of my personal horror stories so that you, the home detailer, can do a great job on your vehicle. So let's start at the beginning...

For those of you who actually enjoy washing your car yourself, because you are worried about taking your baby to the car wash, here are some tips to keep you out of trouble and to keep your paint in the best condition possible.

Start with the right soap. Palmolive was not meant to be used for cars – it strips the wax right off, leaving your car vulnerable to all of the things you are trying to protect it from. Make sure you rinse off the car prior to using soap. Otherwise, the dirt that is currently on the car is scrubbed into the paint finish; this can lead to swirl marks, the circular shapes you see in the paint when the sunlight hits your car. The right chemicals and tools will definitely make a world of difference in the results you get from washing your car. Remember, if it were as easy as grabbing a sponge and any old soap, everyone would do it.

Next, some people use a sponge and others use a wash mitt. The choice is yours; however, using a wash mitt may make a big difference. It has more surface area and more nap, which means that if you are not that thorough in rinsing off the car, the mitt will be more forgiving than a sponge. Using one that is not filthy and has not been dropped in the dirt several times can ensure that your results are rewarding.

Also, take note of how much soap you put in the bucket. Too much soap can create a haze on your car, while too little soap does not do the job. Make sure you read the instructions. You will eventually find out through trial and error exactly how much to mix to get the desired result. Wash only one area at a time so that you do not get soap stains on the paint. Do not worry about the soap drying and leaving watermarks, because you will rinse everything off again before you let the car dry completely. Make sure you wash your wheels and tires with a separate cloth and mitt, or use a sponge if you are not ready to give yours up yet.

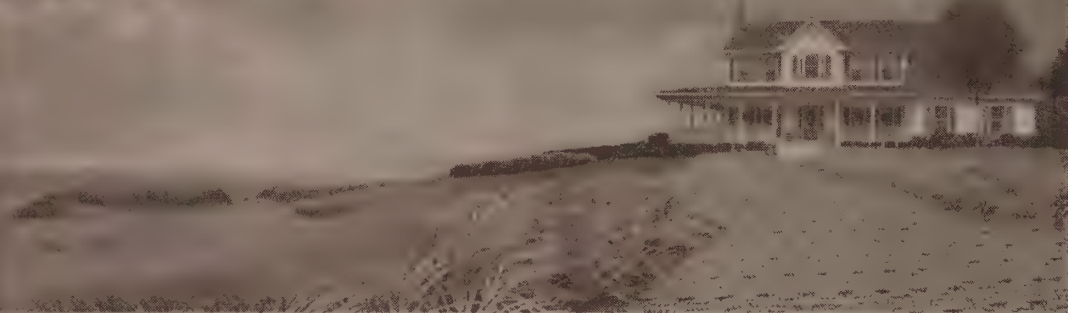

I know a lot of you are still on the fence about whether to chamois or not to chamois and whether it is okay to use a rag to dry off your car. Whichever one you choose, I promise you will regret it. Chamois are outdated. They soak up too much water. Why would you want to hold water and try to dry a car with something that is completely soaked? There is some new technology for the new century called the California Water Blade. It is made of silicone and will not scratch your paint or hold water. What it will do, however, is conform to almost any body curve and squeegee all the water off your car.

Finally, if you ever wonder why no matter how much you wash your car you still can't get it to shine like when you last got it detailed, the answer is that you need to use something called detailer's mist or quick detailer. It is sold almost anywhere they sell car washing or waxing supplies. Follow the directions, and use a micro-fiber towel or a diaper (not Huggies diapers – the kind of diapers in which the stork used to deliver babies in the cartoons). You can even use the detailer's mist and a diaper or micro-fiber towel on windows to get out watermarks or instead of using Windex to clean the windows.

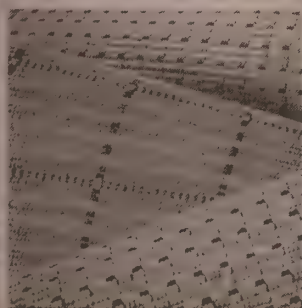

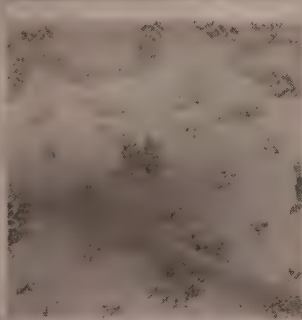

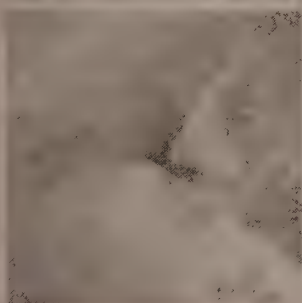

So there you go folks, that is the right way to wash your own car. Next time, I will discuss the rights and wrongs of waxing your own car. Please remember I will always make time for my readers if you have a question just call me and I will be happy to answer it. – Eric and Justine Gallant

About Gardening....with Annette

Night gardening is a neat way to bring attention to an otherwise boring area of the garden. Choosing plants that have a pale gray or white color will perk up a very dark area that normally would be overlooked. In the moonlight, it will appear as if the garden is being lit by a source other than the moon.

Going gray can bring a special magic to the garden. Plants with silver-gray foliage create it all by themselves. They will temper bright colors, invite touch, and most interesting of all, they will look radiant when the sun begins to fade. You can start tall as well. A solitary Colorado blue spruce – what horticulturists call a 'shiner' because of its bright new needles each spring – is a great tall background specimen to begin with. Adding other different sizes, shapes, textures, and shades also contribute to the perfect little (or big) night garden.

Fuzzy lambsears (stachys byzantina) can be a garden mainstay and can be used as a great buffer between other plants. Mullein (Verbascum) has large furry gray leaves. Mugwort (Artemisia 'Powis Castle' and 'Silver King'), yarrow (Achillea), and Russian Sage (Perovskia atriplicifolia) all have finely filigreed leaves that add daintiness to areas that may seem too solid. White Baby's Breath also opens up areas that seem like a 'block.' So does Dusty Miller (lychnis coronaria); its leaves are almost white.

Catmint (Nepeta) yields gray stems and aromatic woolly leaves that are gray underneath. Hopefully, what you are trying to attract here will be only white or gray cats! Woven among neighboring plants can be tiny trailing, mouse-eared, woolly gray leaves of the licorice plant (Helichrysum petiolare).

Oh, another tall one to consider, which is most spectacular as a backdrop, is the Scotch Thistle (Onopordum). It grows five to six feet tall and has prickly, crinkly, silver-white leaves. For contrast with the silver-gray foliage, plant lots of ornamental grasses if you have the space. Also, add some low growers with narrow leaves, blue lyme grass, wheat grass, bulbous oat, and blue fescue.

To maintain interest and for the sake of filling in, pick up some white geraniums and some white petunias. I like to use some white pots in this area as well. You can white wash some clay ones if you have a dislike for the plastic kind. Add some little garden flags with mostly white designs. For example, some beach scenes can perk up dull areas. Try hanging some funky things from your trees as well. You can find many things in TJ Maxx that are shabby chic by design, and although they are probably meant for the house, they will look just as good in your night garden. Paint an old chair white, make a white seat cover, and spray to waterproof it. Look around for a string of artificial white flowers to drape here and there as your real flowers fade. Pick them up with the intention of keeping them outside for only the season. They probably won't last beyond that anyway. Draped through a bare branch or mixed with another climber, they will lend some further interest to the area. You may also want to think of stringing some white (not the yellow) Christmas lights here and there to brighten up the area on a dark moonless night.

Use your imagination to light up your garden and be the talk of the neighborhood as well...

Keep those hands dirty!

— Annette Gunnels Garkowski

Have Sherpa, Will Travel

Everyone has a pet travel story. I, for one, do not ever travel about the Hamptons or anywhere for that matter, without my German schnauzer in a carrier in the back of the car, not only for his comfort, but also for his safety. Tino is a medium size dog, about twenty-seven pounds and I have never considered taking him along with me on an airplane. Until now...

Traveling these days can be an unsettling experience. So, what happens if you need to take your pet along with you? Or, maybe, you've bought a new puppy or kitten from a breeder many miles from home.

Gayle Martz, noted travel authority and owner of Sherpa's Pet Trading Company, has created the first concept store to showcase the best in fine quality luggage and pet carriers for everyone in your travel family. Martz, a former flight attendant, created the first soft-sided pet carrier more than fifteen years ago and has logged millions of miles in the air and on the road. She knows what the frequent traveler needs to help them get where they are going safely, comfortably, and stylishly. Gayle started Sherpa's Pet Trading Company when she was unable to find a pet carrier for her Lhasa Apso, Sherpa. She discovered that a stylish, functional, lightweight carrier didn't exist, and her goal was to create one so that people could travel comfortably with their small companions. Her objective was to achieve a relatively "hassle free" encounter so at least, this travel anxiety can be alleviated.

The single biggest worry experienced by travelers with pets is that an uninformed employee will turn them away from the flight at the last minute despite their compliance with regulations.

The issue at stake here is for the pet owner to follow the sizing guidelines that have been painstakingly devised to make sure their pet is safe and comfy. Most well behaved, pampered pets that travel can hardly compare to the chaos that occurs on every flight with the normal passenger load.

To accommodate all the needs of traveling companions, Gayle Martz has developed a variety of pet travel products to satisfy the discriminating traveler. Over the last six years, she has obtained such noteworthy accounts as Saks Fifth Avenue, Hammacher Schlemmer, Macy's Bloomingdale's, Skymall, Horchow, and American Airlines, along with nationwide distribution in pet stores. The Sherpa Bag won the 1994 Editor's Choice Award for the "Best New Dog Product Of The Year." The Sherpa Bag is available in several styles and three sizes; small, (16"L x 8.4"H x 8"W), medium (18"L x 10.5"H x 11" W), large (20"L x 11.5"H x 17.75"W) and there are many accessories available. The Sherpa Bag is also recommended for use by veterinarians, the ASPCA, the Delta Society, and the Humane Society. The The Sherpa Tote-on-Wheels is a pet carrier that looks like a suitcase with wheels and a telescoping handle. The tote-on-wheels carrier holds pets up to sixteen pounds and the cost: $79.

The Sherpa Roll-Up is pure privacy on the move...It fits comfortably under the cabin seats and has:

- Mesh panels on four sides for ventilation
- Roll-up flaps for privacy
- A travel tray for additional convenience
- An adjustable shoulder strap
- A washable faux lambskin liner
- A top and side entry

Crouch & Fitzgerald with Sherpa will be the first concept store of its kind, offering one-stop shopping for all types of luggage and accessories for you and your pets. For more than 160 years prominent New York families and travelers from around the world have relied on Crouch and Fitzgerald's high quality luggage and leather goods. From briefcases and carry-ons to computer bags and suitcases, today's business world depends on Crouch & Fitzgerald for its fine leather products, personalized approach, and high level of quality. With the addition of the Sherpa Shop, purchasing lifestyle items for pets and people has never been easier. Tino will never travel without his Sherpa, that's for sure!

Vodka Turns 500

2003 is a special year for vodka. Russia—which vies with Poland for the distinction of vodka's birthplace—is celebrating the drink's 500th anniversary this year by opening a museum devoted to the nation's definitive elixir.

The anniversary could also signal a turning point for Peconika, the only vodka made from Hamptons potatoes, which dwells in relative obscurity despite its accolades and pedigree. Many East End bars and restaurants do not carry it; a few local bartenders thought the company had gone out of business.

Peconika grabbed a double-gold at the 2001 San Francisco World Spirits Competition, where Stoli got Silver and Ketel One got Bronze. Governor Pataki only serves Peconika at his functions, as did Guiliani. A major distributor in California is carrying Peconika for the first time after reading about it in a trade magazine.

And Peconika enjoys a full calendar of in-store tastings and charitable events for the summer. "People come in to stock up for the weekend, and if we can get them to convert for the weekend, then we can siphon them off from Stoli or Grey Goose," Steve Abramson, Peconika co-founder, explained as he mixed up Cosmopolitans at the Sag Harbor Liquor Store.

The idea of a vodka made from Hamptons potatoes was hatched in June of 1999. "We were at the Laundry, and I ordered a martini," Steve remembered, referring to himself and Jane Nichols, "partners in both work and life," according to www.peconika.com. "They didn't have Stoli so I tried Ketel One for the first time. And then it hit me. Why do we always have to go out of country for vodka? Why not do it here?"

Steve and Jane both have backgrounds in product development and marketing (Jane introduced Vaseline Intensive Care, among other major brands, to the world.) They named the brand for its natal bay, hybridizing the words Peconic and vodka.

"Vodka is based on snob-appeal and developing the cachet has a lot to do with ads, not taste," said Jane. Still, one would think that the only Vodka that can claim to be from New York, made exclusively with potatoes grown in Bridgehampton, would carry some cachet with New Yorkers.

But for a small food business operating within the potatoes, the 80 proof liquor was first made in the 15th century of rye and other grains. Apparently, potatoes weren't used until the 17th century, after Europeans brought the tuber back from the New World. And Polish vodkas are the only ones that favor potatoes.)

"We settled on a blend of 20 percent potatoes and 80 percent grain by volume, which gives the drink a silky and smooth feel," said Steve, who commands a powerful grasp of vodka chemistry and history. He can give you the geopolitical skinny on why Absolut overtook Stoli in the 1980's and why Gurney's owner Nick Monte famously poured a case of Stoli into the sea. (Less to do with the cult-inspiring ads than the Soviet downing of a Korean jetliner over Kamchatka Peninsula.)

There hasn't been a distillery in New York State since Prohibition, so Peconika sends its potatoes in refrigerated trucks to a distiller in Idaho. The blended product is then bottled in New Jersey, since there are no New York bottlers. "We'd love to have the sales volume to justify building our own local bottling operation, but we don't," Steve admitted. "We wish our volume was large enough so that we could tear down houses to plant more potato fields."

Federal law prohibits alcohol producers from selling direct to consumers, a vestige of Prohibition-era efforts to keep the mob out of bootlegging. What this means is that the top selling spirits tend to be those with the massive distribution and marketing budgets who can push their product into liquor stores and bars with promotions, giveaways, and neon lights.

Jane and Steve partly get the word out by sponsoring charitable events in New York and the Hamptons, including for Broadway Cares, Family Service League, Group for the South Fork, and All for the Sea among others. "Our brand is rooted in community," said Jane.

Steve and Jane have some flavored blends on the back burner, but they want to solidify the following before rolling them out. After four years, it hasn't been all fun and games, Jane noted. "The first ten events are more memorable than the last ten," she said. "But, it's fun, it's always fun."

nation's Byzantine alcohol laws, there are certain barriers to successfully marketing a Hamptons vodka.

First, why not make the vodka exclusively from potatoes to maximize the use of Hamptons-grown produce? "The major brands are distilled completely from grain, and people have gotten used to the full-burst feel of grain-based vodka," Steve explained. (While most people associate vodka with

Summer Antiques Show In Southampton

The much anticipated Summer Antiques Show in Southampton will debut on Friday, July 25, from 6 to 9 p.m. with a preview party to benefit the League of Women Voters of the Hamptons. The Summer Antiques Show continues the proud tradition of being regarded as "The Best Antiques Show in the Hamptons," with a spectacular fourteenth year highlighting some of the more prominent exhibitors in the United States. In dramatic room setting booths, the international exhibitors will offer for sale the finest in American, European, and Asian antiques, fine art, decorative objects, period furniture, estate jewelry, rugs, lighting, textiles and pillows, porcelains, silver, and so much more. The Antiques Show will then continue to be open for general admissions throughout the day on Saturday, July 26, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, July 27, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Held in the Recreation Center of Southampton High School, 141 Narrow Lane in the Village of Southampton, the Summer Antiques Show appeals to the most discriminating of tastes. A perpetual hit with local and summer residents, the Antiques Show offers an opportunity to view and purchase from many exhibitors who make this show their only appearance in the northeast. In a review of the antiques show from last season, titled

"Southampton Antiques Show Remains One of the Best," the writer commented that the show was "elegant, tasteful, refined and sometimes grandiose" and that "trade was energetic for almost anything" in the show. This is truly the one antiques show of the summer season that is worth the wait, and so many of Southampton's residents do just that.

The 14th Anniversary Summer Antiques Show proves once again why this particular show has been afforded so many accolades. Hailing from Florida, Barometer Fair of Sarasota will offer antique barometers, cameras and other scientific instruments, while Elliot Spaisman Antiques of Washington, D.C. will offer eclectic 19th and 20th century furniture and accessories for attendees. New to the show for this season, David Beauchamp Antiques of Hancock, New Hampshire has planned a stunning booth of neo-classical, Federal furniture, accented with paintings, silver, and decorative boxes.

Interior Expressions of Millwood, Virginia will be offering fine American furniture, art works, and wonderful decorative accessories to those in attendance. For the finest in Persian carpets, plan to visit the expansive booth of TLC Rugs of Alexandria, Virginia, or if you are in search of lovely American paintings, please plan to visit David and Donna Kmetz of Douglas, Massachusetts. Joining the prestigious antiques show for the first time will be Jacqueline Graber of White Plains, New York and Deborah Farmer of East Sandwich, Massachusetts, who will join forces to present a display of English and continental furnishings and accessories – all new to the market, having just arrived in a shipment from Europe. Also for his first visit to this fine show, Steven Welch of Southampton will bring 18th and 19th century English and continental furnishings and decorations, and newcomer Essex Antiquarians of Whitinsville, Massachusetts will have 18th and 19th century furniture.

Connecticut will be well-represented at this season's very special antiques show. Tapletop Designs of Cheshire will mount a collection of fine china, crystal, and silver for the show, while continental furniture, garden and architectural furnishings, ornaments, and accessories can be found in the stand of Sydelle and Jay Livingston of Westport. The longest participant in the Summer Antiques Show, Zane Moss Antiques of New York City, will bring the finest in English furniture, art, porcelains, and appropriate accessories for his fourteenth consecutive appearance in Southampton.

There will be the finest estate jewelry from Massab Bros., Oriental and decorative rugs, fine antique prints, pottery, chandeliers, china and glass, and more at the show this season. From the lovely orchids gracing the entrance to the far reaches of the hall, this is a quality antiques event and worthy of a visit.

The Summer Antiques Show in Southampton Preview Party includes fine food and summer drinks from The Elegant Touch, early buying privileges and re-admission to the antiques show throughout the weekend. Tickets for the opening event are $25.00 in advance from the League of Women Voters of the Hamptons at 631-537-0120 or $30.00 at the door on Friday evening, July 25th.

The Saturday and Sunday admission is $6 for the "Summer's Finest Antiques Show." For further information regarding this or any other of their fine shows, contact Oliver and Gannon Associates, Inc. at 518-861-5478, shows@albany.net or preview the show on the web at www.ShowsFairsFestivals.com.

English Country Antiques: Tastefully Sublime

Long before Ralph and Donna came to the Hamptons and became household names, English Country Antiques and its very talented staff of professionals were busy designing and decorating interiors from Aspen hunting lodges, to Hampton beach cottages and English country estates.

English Country Antiques is a 'happening', where friends meet and decorators shop to find just about everything required to enhance all their own decorating needs.

It began with an idea, and manifested into 3 stores providing those who shop with fun and fabulous English, Chinese and European pieces of furniture. Brother Michael did the buying; Chris found great space in an old potato barn in Bridgehampton. Before they both knew it, the Hampton's were truly invaded by the English all over again...

Chris and Michael now travel together in England to bring the finest antiques to the Hamptons. Michael has transformed an old brewery in Devon, into a showroom for the antiques he keeps for his own collections, and for his customers. He lives in the loft on the roof top of this 150 year old building with cobble stoned streets overlooking forever views of the English countryside and church steeples.

Vignettes tell the story in Bridgehampton. The story is always changing, from classic toile window coverings, to exotic fabrics for your grandmother's parlor chair. There are antiques mixed in with new upholstery and wall paper prints. Many times the whole vignette is just taken home as is! You can find antique accessories and unique one of a kind chest of drawers, to handmade chairs and side tables or just a house warming gift.

ECA specializes in old and custom made furniture for the whole house, Mitchell Gold sofas and beds, horned and brass chandeliers and wonderful lighting for every room. The fabric department has in itself thousands of fabric selections from all over Europe. You can shop European style and save on the airplane fare! One stop shopping, with designer staff to help coordinate your own space for an instant picture of what you want. They put it all together for you.

You really get a sense of a little bit of history when you visit. It's a grand way of mixing the old and the new from across the ocean. Decorating is made easy with style and English Country Antiques.

About Face.....with Annette

Summer Hair Need Not Be A Scare

Summer has hit dead on, and unfortunately this sun-drenched season can be a killer to our hair. Most people use various types of skin care during these months, but most of us don't even think of the harsh effect this environment has on the hair. Ritual sunbathing and swimming deliver a one-two punch that will damage even the healthiest hair by exposing it to harmful UV light, sea salt, and pool chemicals. And if your hair is already dry, brittle, damaged in any way, bleached or dyed, AND unprotected, you can expect a total beauty knockout! Hair that is unprotected and left to fend for itself soaks up the sun's rays and the pool's chlorinated water like a sponge. The sun and pool work together to fry hair and burn the scalp, and as a result, hair loses its natural elasticity and becomes dry and brittle, causing breakage, hair loss, and other problems. So, making sure you purchase a good brand of sunscreen shampoos, moisturizers, conditioners, sprays, gels, and ointments, should be top on your list of to-do's when heading for the watering hole of your choice.

Experiment with these products to find the ones that work best for your hair type, environment, and lifestyle. Hair can be damaged not only by UV rays and chemicals but also by heat, free radicals, chemicals, and daily styling. The newest development in hair-care is that of protective products that utilize natural plant proteins in shampoos and conditioners and vitamins, UV filters, and polymers that coat and can actually repair damaged hair.

Photo Phyto Plage Shampoo - $18 - is an after-sun shampoo for the hair and body. It is recommended for all hair types and is best used after prolonged exposure to the sun, salt water, or chlorine. Kukui nut oil hydrates, moisturizes, and nourishes the hair, while coconut oil gently cleanses. It helps eliminate salt and sun protection products, and replenishes the skin's protective lipid barrier. Bancoulie oil is exceptionally rich in essential fatty acids, helps preserve the lipid structures, and thereby prevents drying. Bancoulie is combined with replenishing, moisturizing plant marrow and a gentle washing base derived from Coconut Oil.

Phyto Phyto Plage Moisturizing Sun Gel - $18 - is a moisturizing, non-oily sun gel for all hair types, especially damaged or thick hair. Wood cellulose and chamomile condition, while sage, ferula, and a horseradish tone the hair shaft and chlorophyllin copper extract enhances shine. This plant-based sun gel gives the hair totally invisible protection during and after sun exposure.

All Phyto products - and there are so many - can be purchased by going to their website at

Some Summer Haircut Summaries

As school age children start bugging their parents for shorter haircuts during the summer, some are begging their parents for just the opposite; they want it long. Many parents traditionally try to urge the kids to get extra short cuts for the hot months, simply for their own convenience. Who wants to face a head full of knots in the morning when pool and beach is the only thing on everyone's mind? For those parents who receive resistance to this cutting idea, science offers several reasons to back them up. Researchers who study the biology of hair suggest a few advantages, from a scientific point of view, of a shorter summer haircut.

-Less hair keeps the head cool. People can lose up to 50% of their body heat from the top of their head. This is why it's important for everyone to wear hats and earmuffs in the winter. But when we don't want to get overheated, having less hair can make it easier for that heat to escape. Thick overlapping layers will insulate the scalp, so short hair will reduce this in the summer. Things get even better if the hair is not totally flat. Curly hair is raised above the scalp and can actually permit wind to cool the head!

-Hair grows slightly faster in the hot months. A 1991 article in the British Journal of Dermatology explored androgen-dependent hair growth in bald men living in temperate climate. Androgen-dependent hair includes some scalp hair and other hair whose growth is influenced by a kind of hormone called androgens.

By contrast, androgens do not affect the growth of other types of hair such as eyelashes and eyebrows. One thing to know is that results may not apply to children as their hormonal activity is very different from that of adults, at least before puberty.

-Scalp hair grows up to 0.45 millimeters per day. This daily rate translates to about half an inch per month.

-Cutting hair does not make it grow faster, so clever kids cannot use this excuse to delay a haircut.

-Shorter hair makes it much easier to spot ticks on the scalp, which is really important in some areas with a prevalence of Lyme Disease.

On the negative side:

-Shorter hair, especially for those with lighter hair, receives more exposure to potentially damaging UV radiation during the summer months. However, thicker hair may reduce the amount of UV hitting the scalp.

Healthy Hair Plus-Hair needs certain vitamins, proteins, and a clean root to be healthy. Yet, most hair products actually strip the hair. These salon grade products replace essential nutrients and aminos as well as revitalize with moisture and a deep cleansing of bacteria and dirt that acquire on hair roots over time. They provide the vitamins and proteins needed for growth, shine, and health.

-Blondes tend to have more hairs per unit area, with redheads having the least and other hair colors in the middle.

-Does hair grow faster during the day than in the night? There is evidence that hair growth follows a circadian (24-hour) rhythm. It is also found that some of the circadian clock genes are expressed in hair follicles.

-All hair twists as it grows...even if the hair is straight. The more twists in the hair fiber, the curlier it will be. Although the actual decision as to whether hair should be curly at all rests on the shape of the follicle.

Police Blotter

East Hampton Town Police had their hands full this past week. Most of the crimes reported involved bored, immature folks up to no good.

A Dembroke Drive man approached his pickup truck in his driveway on Thursday to find his Weed Eater trimmer missing from the bed. Police have no suspects linked to the $200 piece of lawn equipment.

At an East Hampton Motel on Tuesday night, police arrested a weed smoker. The cold Spring Harbor man was being questioned as a witness to another crime when police saw him pick up a bag of marijuana from the parking lot. He was charged with unlawful possession of marijuana.

Ya' know, vandalism really stinks. Of all the crappy ways one could soil the integrity of another's belongings, some criminals just flush respect right down the drain. A Ditch Plains Road man called police on Monday to report the vandalism of a Mut Mit box at Ditch Plains Beach. In addition to the K-9 sanitary solution, the unknown culprits also burned about 40 feet of snow fence. Police have the incident on record and are patrolling the area more frequently.

Police have been unable to capture the unknown criminal who stole a 14 foot boat and trailer from a North Farragut Road resident. So far it's smooth sailing for the thief who managed to leave no clues at the Montauk residence.

More heinous crime sprung up in East Hampton last week when someone ripped $50 worth of flowers from their pots. The blood bath occurred at a Harrison Avenue restaurant sometime between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, sadly, when flowers are usually asleep in their beds.

Police responded to two South Delray Road residences in Montauk on Tuesday after receiving a call from one of the residents. The man told police that he was walking his dog when he saw a suspicious car in his neighbor's driveway. When he shined his flashlight at the vehicle for a better look, two men froze in their tracks and dropped the barbecue grill they were carrying. They fled in their vehicle before the man could get a physical description or the car's license plate number.

—Written and compiled by Tom Haskell who reminds us that if a pun were a crime, he'd be on death row.

Dan's Letters

FLAG-TASTIC

Dear Dan,

Great newspaper. My first and favorite issue I got in East Hampton back in 1976 when we were on vacation at an old motel at the end of Penny Lane. I was only thirteen back then and loved the article on the early American flag found in the Bridgehampton attic. I still have this issue and read the story every few years.

BLUE NOTE

Dear Dan,

The Blues

By Richard Sawyer

I was feeling kind of down,

Like an unhappy clown'

I'd been working seven days a week

And was feelin kind of meek

I had lost my groove and ended in a rut,

Workin every day just like a mutt

And then I saw it in the early dawn,

Dan's Paper's sitting on my new mowed lawn

I opened it up and what did I see

A "Blues Concert" happening in the country

In a little old farming town named Riverhead,

I knew if I missed, I'd end up dead...

So I headed out, with my fingers crossed,

Trying to save my soul that was almost lost...

When I arrived at the River's head,

I began to believe what I had read.

There stood a huge crowd who'd been rocked to their feet

By a band, which was laying down, a heavy blues beat.

I got my groove back in Riverhead and I'll never let it go until I'm dead.

Richard Sawyer
Sag Harbor

PRIVATE NOTE

Dear Dan,

I must say with the pristine and usually fair-minded attitude that pervades Dan's Papers and the just and fair positions you always take, I am amazed at one glaring exception.

The little section in your real estate section that reveals current real estate sales ("over a million, under a million"), revealing the buyer and seller, the price and their address is a gross breach of privacy. To give the name, amount and address is publicizing for all, both honest folk as well as thieves and stalkers, where people live and how much money they have, and even what houses may be empty during the winter. I assume you get this from the local County Clerk, who should also be reprimanded. Do those people now have to "unlist" their phone numbers so thieves can't call before they raid the house? The stalkers and thieves of this world are well enough, with such websites and "Find.com" and other sites that for seventy-five dollars tell anyone anywhere where anyone else anywhere is, besides Dan's now helping them out. I, and I'm sure all who are in the process of buying or selling their dream houses, ask you to reconsider this tidbit. At least make the stalker/thieves go to the County Clerk's office if they want this information. Although there may be curiosity about how much e.g. Billy's house sold for to Jerry, it doesn't mean it's any of our business, and I think you do jeopardize the safety of those whose income, or financial status, and addresses you are reporting... and we all can't afford those high tech security systems...not to mention the junk mail that these people are probably inundated with, eg. To buy a new septic system, clean their chimney or install a pool. This area is our "escape" and you are blowing our cover. Please do not start publishing local MONTAUK STAR MAPS...as profitable as that may be. By the way, maybe that lawyer who sued the tobacco companies and MacDonald's may want to hold Dan's responsible for any burglaries caused by revealing this private info...just gotta get a thief to say "I saw it in Dan's." (Humor!)

Thank you

THAT SINKING FEELING

Dear Dan,

Just a quick note regarding your story on Cabin Fever Survivor on Seas story which was covered by the Sheltered Islander a few weeks ago while I was there on vacation and which was covered again by you this week.

Amazingly for such a good real life story one of the most pertinent facts was omitted which was that the night before the ship went down they spent the evening in the presence of the King of Tory Island and fellow islanders for a banquet and the Tory Islanders being mostly a fishing community specifically advised them not to venture out the next morning on the seas as it was Friday 13th, June and the fishing community being extremely superstitious none of their brethren would go out that day at all.

However, TV schedule pressures being what they were, the only boat to leave Tory Island dock that day was Cabin Fever I and within a short time she was gone under.

One fisherman was so convinced that it was all going to go pear shaped actually filmed the boat leaving and got the coverage of it hitting the rocks and the abandoning ship.

You can probably access the Video footage at www.rtenews.ie for 13th/14th June. (Or www.rte.ie)

Nobody in the US appears to have covered the Friday 13th angle at all.

WE SPELLL WRITE, NOT CUONT WRITE

Dear Dan,

Quick question: Who does the math editing? A 10' wide waterfall is 120" not 100" wide and 50x100 is 5,000 not 500. Though you might need a little help.

Also about two years ago you calculated the amount of tree work being done to the wire on our roadways, but when you calculated the length of the wires to be trimmed you took the length of all the roads and multiplied it by two for both sides of the street. I dunno bout your road but most I drive down only have telephone and electric wires on one side.

Thanks.

Glen Spencer
Via e-mail

We've been averaging five of these mathematical errors a month. That's ten a year.
